Jittery France Still Awaits Invasion

Paris Main Target

PARIS (Reuters) — An interior ministry official declared early today that "all is quiet and we now do not expect anything to happen this night."

There was no sign of an invasion of metropolitan France by Algeria-based rebel paratroopers when the official made the announcement.

Government sources had said earlier:

NOON OR LATE

"The danger of an attack against the central power is greater than it was last night. The rebels know they must capture Paris soon or they are lost."

An alert for an invasion by paratroopers under Algeria's rebel French generals went on after France clamped an economic blockade on the North African territory Monday night.

Other Stories,
See Page 7.

Information Minister Louis Terrenoire said all movements of funds, all bank operations and all maritime traffic was being suspended between metropolitan France and Algeria.

With 3,000 to 4,000 volunteers enrolled in a specially constituted army unit and other safeguards in force, government security measures were raised stronger than 24 hours ago.

PROTESTS CITED

There were reports by loyalist armymen flying in from Algeria that some armymen and sailors there had protested the rebellion.

However, the French news agency said the French Foreign Legion headquarters town of Sidi Bel Abbes had gone over to the rebel generals, who also are said to control Oran and Constantine as well as Algiers.

ARMY HELD

Premier Debre Monday night issued a new warning of a possible invasion by the Algerian junta following its failure to execute an expected paratroop assault Sunday night.

He emphasized the government would not issue arms to civilian organizations as demanded by the Communists.

Terrenoire announced formation of a special 10,000-man force of riot police, police and republican guards for the defence of Paris.

TO THEIR KNEES

"All means will be employed to block the way to these men, until we can bring them to their knees."

Experts calculated that Algeria could not hold out in the face of a blockade for more than two weeks. The rebel generals in Algiers must seize Paris within a week or meet total failure, they said.

DOWN TOO FAR

Meanwhile, 10,000,000 French workers downed tools for an hour Monday in a gesture of support for de Gaulle—the biggest general strike ever known in the country.

Gen. Maurice Challe, one of the rebel junta, said the coup was aimed at saving Algeria "from the claws of rebellion and to give back France a purified Algeria."

He added: "In this matter I shall go to the very end."

U.S. 'Angry Man' Hits Education

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lack of individual attention, too much wasted time and diversions that don't belong in the classroom make much of North America's teaching ineffective, says Dr. Mortimer Adler.

Dr. Adler, head of the Institute of Philosophical Research in San Francisco and once called the "Angry Man" of U.S. education, made the comments in an interview here.

An average student, able to make passing grades in a four-year course, could do it in two with a tutor, said Dr. Adler.

Effective teaching, he added, requires small classes, not more than 10 to 12. In a class of 30, each student seldom can be "called to bat" and his attention can wander the remainder of the time.

"Teachers are not given enough general education. The thing they can not do is pass on the torch of learning unless they are on fire themselves."

Missing Girl Comes Home

Anna Marie Como, 15, missing four days from her home at 4034 Cumberland, returned to Victoria early today. (See story on Page 9.)

The girl's father, L. A. Como, told the Colonist he and his wife were relieved and happy to have their daughter back, safe and well.

"Tonight we will sleep well for the first time since she left," he said.

DONALD FLEMING

Tax Relief Seen Only for Industry

OTTAWA (Special) — Canadian taxpayers are expected to get little relief from the present heavy burden of taxes in the federal budget due in the Commons next month.

Finance Minister Fleming is determined to curb the size of his 1961-62 budget deficit and at the same time provide momentum to the pace of economic expansion.

Tax concessions, if any, will obviously go to business and industry to encourage economic growth, rather than to the average taxpayer.

Exact date of the budget, probably May 11 or 13, may be announced in the Commons this week. It was just last week the Commons approved the "class or kind" tariff resolution based on the baby budget's provisions.

STRIKE INSIDE

Delay in approving the baby budget has held back the 1961-62 budget. So has the railway strike set for May 16.

The federal government may decide to provide subsidies to the railways to help them pay the additional $45,000,000 needed to meet wage demands. Mr. Fleming has to find this money.

HINTS DROPPED

Already several members of the cabinet have dropped hints that little or no tax cuts can be expected.

Recently Mr. Fleming himself hinted that if there was going to be any tax easement it might be in the field of corporation taxes.

MASSIVE ORDER

Government thinking appears to be moving along the lines that to have any real effect personal income tax concessions would have to be of the massive order of $500,000,000 or more. This would work out to about $100 for each of the 5,000,000 taxpayers.

There is a very real question as to actually how much of this $100 saving would get into circulation. The weight of the arguments at present are against such a massive income tax cut.

BOUNCING BACK

The Conservatives feel the economy will pick up a bit during the summer. However actual business and industrial growth is not expected to be sufficient to keep next winter's prospective unemployment from bouncing back up again to high totals.

Torrent of Invective Rubs In U.S. Defeat

(From AP, Reuters)

MIAMI — Cuba's radio stations continued to pour a stream of invective towards the United States Monday, rubbing in the defeat of a U.S.-approved invasion that was squelched by the forces of Premier Castro.

There was still no comment from President Kennedy or other Washington spokesmen on the charges made by Castro in a marathon television address Sunday night. In it he said "the threat of Kennedy is much like the threat of Hitler."

MUST BE SHOT

In his television speech, Castro was quoted by The Associated Press as saying "counter-revolutionary must be shot" and "don't let the terrorists entertain dreams that they can act with impunity while they—paradise—in these plans."

However, Castro implied that clemency for the captured invaders would depend on a U.S. pledge not to attempt to oust Communism from Cuba, the AP said.

NO REPORT

There was no report of any executions Monday. One broadcast said the total number of prisoners taken since the abortive coup began a week ago was 743.

A new target for vituperation was New York's Francis Cardinal Spellman, described as "the Cardinal of the Pentagon, the Central Intelligence Agency and the North American monopolists."

TOUCHED OFF

A "pastoral letter of sorrow," written by the Roman Catholic prelate and read from the pulpit of New York City's St. Patrick's Cathedral, touched off the blast. It said the Castro government betrayed the revolution that put it in power.

The White House issued a statement which said: "President Kennedy has stated from the beginning that

Gagarin's 'Vostok' Used Three Times

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet scientists test-fired the space ship Vostok into orbit around the earth twice before it carried Maj. Yuri Gagarin on his historic flight, the government newspaper Izvestia said yesterday.

The newspaper said the tests were conducted in March. The Vostok carried two dogs named Chernushka (Little Star) and Zvezdochka (Black Star) and a dummy. Izvestia said the spaceship returned to earth both times "intact."

In a scientific report on Gagarin's flight, Izvestia said the two test flights "confirmed the reliability of the design and all instrumentation of the spaceship."

LAND ANYWHERE

It said the Vostok is equipped with instruments which would enable its pilot to land anywhere he chooses without control from the ground. Izvestia said Gagarin's flight was fully automatic but he could "at his own discretion or upon command from the earth, assume control . . . determine its bearings and descend in a chosen area."

Izvestia said Gagarin could have landed safely without leaving the capsule or he could have been ejected in his catapult seat from the cabin at an altitude of 43 miles and "then descend with parachutes." It did not say which method was used.

THREE PORTHOLES

Izvestia said Vostok had three portholes and two quick-opening manholes. Its food and water supply, regeneration chemicals and electrical generators were designed for a 10-day flight.

Women, Foreigners Join 'Citizen Army'

PARIS (Reuters) — Fashionably dressed Parisian women and a number of foreigners were among 4,000 volunteers who enrolled here Monday night in a French "citizens army."

Recruiting for this anti-paratroop corps was opened in the Grand Palais, a glass-roofed exhibition hall near the Champs Elysees. The signing up closed two hours later with hundreds of people still waiting to enroll.

Recruits were guided to huge piles of boots, camouflage jackets, drinking mugs, steel helmets, belts and other items of military equipment littering the Grand Palais floor. Tommy guns, rifles and ammunition were stacked in an exhibit corner, but no arms were issued.

Clusters Must Go, Ottawans Cry

By TOM GREEN
Colonist Ottawa
(Correspondent)

OTTAWA — There is an outcry in Ottawa in connection with the elimination of the five-globe cluster lights on the main thoroughfares of the capital, first installed by the city back in 1910.

But the outcry is not against their removal and their replacement by modern lighting standards. It is a demand—virtually unanimous among the citizenry—for more speed in getting rid of the old "clusters"—an antiquated and giving insufficient light in contrast with the new modern standards.

Decision to start with removal of cluster lights on two of the seven main through-fares in the city where they have been erected over the years has now been taken by Ottawa's board of control. Elimination of the "clusters" on all main thoroughfares and their replacement by modern lighting standards is to be completed here within the next four or five years.

Paul Tardiff, Liberal MP for the adjacent riding of Russell and a city controller for many years, says the people of Ottawa are anxious to have their main thoroughfares lit with modern lighting. He was last in Victoria three years ago.

"Victoria," Mr. Tardiff said Monday, "is deserving of modern lighting. That would not prevent the hanging of their beautiful flower baskets on the new standards and continue the charm these decorations bring to Victoria."

Cease-Fire Orders Out Today

Take Three Steps to Peace Russia, Britain Tell Laotians

LONDON (Reuters)—Russia and Britain Monday jointly called on Laotian leftists and rightists to agree on a cease-fire in the civil war raging in the tiny Indochina kingdom.

Russia and Britain specified the cease-fire as the first of three steps aimed at ending the war, which they said "may become a serious threat to peace and security in south-east Asia."

TRUCE GROUP

The second step was reactivation of the international truce supervisory commission on Laos which would verify and control the cease-fire.

The third step, growing out of the cease-fire, would come May 12, when 14 nations sit down at Geneva to hammer out a final settlement.

MINISTER LEVEL

Russia and Britain hoped the Geneva talks would be at the foreign minister level.

The British-Soviet agreement called on Indian Prime Minister Nehru to reactivate immediately the supervisory commission so it can work out rules of procedure at the same time factions in the civil war make cease-fire contacts.

CANADA CALLED

India immediately sent a call to Canada and Poland, its fellow commission members, for an urgent meeting Friday in New Delhi. The commission adjourned indefinitely in July, 1958. Canada was considered certain to attend.

The commission is to report back to Britain and Russia when it has worked out rules of procedure.

CO-CHAIRMEN

Britain and Russia, acting as co-chairmen of the 1954 Geneva conference that ended the war in the former French colony of Indochina, then would issue directives for "the work of controlling the cease-fire."

Britain said Monday it must be satisfied the cease-fire was effective before the beginning of the 14-nation Geneva conference.

The U.S. state department took a similar view, although it greeted the cease-fire call with "satisfaction." Spokesman Lincoln White said in

UNEXPLORED LAND
More than 500 islands and cays in Australia's Great Barrier Reef are yet to be explored.

Washington the U.S. stands on its policy of "no verified cease-fire, no conference."

White noted the Pathet Lao rebels in Laos have launched an offensive towards the capital of Vientiane and added: "We shall therefore see whether a cease-fire is in fact observed."

Authoritative sources said cease-fire orders in Laos may go out today.

GIVEN APPEAL

It was understood Britain has given the cease-fire appeal to the right-wing regime of Prince Boun Oum, which is recognized by the West.

The Soviet Union was understood to have given the appeal to authorities which recognize the neutralist regime of Prince Souvanna Phouma, who Monday was in Communist China, where he was expected to meet with Communist leader Mao Tse-tung.

Scientist Discovers Hannibal's Victims

ROME (AP)—An Italian archaeologist has found a burial ground he believes contains the remains of Romans slain by Hannibal in the battle of Lake Trasimeno almost 23 centuries ago. Prof. Giancarlo Susini says with the aid of an aerial survey he located the burial ground not far from the scene of the battle in which Hannibal's Carthaginians ambushed a Roman army of 25,000 led by Flaminius June 24, 217 B.C. The invaders from Carthage killed 16,000 Romans.

Roman Baths Unearthed In Western Germany

TRIER, West Germany (Reuters)—A series of Roman ruins, described by experts as the most important discovered in West Germany for several years, has been uncovered in this former Imperial Roman city. The ruins, 20 feet below ground level, included parts of Emperor Constantine's baths and remains of several Roman houses.

Even Tramps and Gypsies Counted in British Census

LONDON (AP)—Even homeless wanderers were included Sunday when census forms were distributed to Britain's 50,000,000 inhabitants.

Police made a tally of tramps; railway conductors distributed forms to people on overnight train trips; hotel operators were charged with seeing all their guests were counted; and the forestry commission searched out gypsies camped in country lanes.

Elephant Kills Shopper

SAN ANGELO, Tex. (UPI)—A 40-year-old female elephant named Henryetta, brought here to entertain children at a shopping centre, went berserk yesterday and picked up 67-year-old John Orr in her trunk, dashed him to the ground and trampled him to death as shoppers looked on in horror.

Justice of the Peace J. B. Holberg said he was withholding a verdict on the cause of death pending an autopsy on Orr's body. "I am going to call in a zoo expert," Holberg said. "If it appears this elephant has a background of violence I will try to get a court order to have her destroyed."

To Work or Not to Work That's Artistic Question

WOLVERHAMPTON, England (CP)—The Wolverhampton branch of an engineering union commissioned John Paddison to do a statue representing a typical British engineer. The finished product showed a man with his coat half on and half off. "He's taking it off, eager to get to work," says sculptor Paddison.

The Wolverhampton engineers thought differently. They said the man was putting his coat on—eager to get away from work. So it was rejected.

"It gives the impression that the British workman is only interested in dashing off as soon as the whistle blows," said a spokesman for the union. The four-foot statue now stands in the town's art gallery. "As far as I'm concerned he's taking his coat off—and that's the way it's staying," says Paddison.

The Cougars Depart

VICTORIA'S postwar years of professional ice hockey have come to an end; its franchise has gone elsewhere. It is back now to the position of 1927 when the Cougars of that time disappeared as the old Pacific Coast League was absorbed by the National Hockey League.

This will be a blow to the faithful supporters of the Cougar club, and have other local repercussions, but it is not unexpected. Professional hockey here has been precariously poised the last few years; it no longer sufficiently pays its way. Dwindling crowds are common in all sports as modern recreational tastes change, but this city is not large enough to keep step with major metropolitan areas.

Professional ice hockey is big business with small room for sentiment. Franchises are bid for and sold, or traded to other cities where prospects of success are better; it takes promoters of means to sustain a hockey franchise unless the spectators are in good supply. Victoria cannot match the potential pool that exists in San Francisco and Los Angeles, for instance, the two new entrants to the Western Hockey League. It is to the latter that the Victoria franchise has been transferred.

Something goes out of the life of the city nevertheless as the Cougars pass from the scene. Professional ice hockey was the major sports attraction even if crowd attendance has been falling off. It put Victoria on the map of the national winter game. And it provided fine entertainment on a scale greater than any other.

The City Council will have special cause to note the end of the Cougar regime with regret and perhaps some dismay. The Memorial Arena was built to house professional hockey, and its capital debt is not yet paid off. There may be a loss of revenue to face. Lack of professional hockey may also have its effect on the amateur leagues, since interest is spurred by the higher-grade quality of play to be emulated. This also could affect the returns. On the other hand ample time now should be available for public skating, although experience elsewhere has shown an adverse trend when hockey disappears.

The arena management at all events will have to reorient its policies in the light of the Cougars' departure. New attractions will be needed to take up the slack.

A Reasonable Proposal

IT would be difficult to find fault, in all fairness, with the stand taken by Reeve George Chatterton of Saanich on the intermunicipal sharing of costs of Greater Victoria projects.

Reeve Chatterton, in the face of a proposal that Greater Victoria municipal aid in extension of St. Joseph's Hospital be divided on a population basis, has balked at this system.

In future Greater Victoria joint undertakings, he maintains, the cost should be divided according to municipal assessment totals; but he is willing to compromise and share costs on a formula taking into account populations and assessment totals in equal measure.

His reasoning seems good. Rapidly-growing Saanich, as yet almost entirely a residential municipality, soon will have more people than Victoria if its present rate of growth continues. But because of Victoria's business and industry, the city has and probably will continue to have for many years a far higher assessment total.

The result is that if costs are shared on a population basis, Saanich—to raise almost as much as Victoria—must impose a heavier rate of taxation, and a Saanich home-owner must pay more than his Victoria equivalent.

It may be argued, of course, that the need for such intermunicipal undertakings as helping with hospital extension stems directly from the population growth in Victoria's neighboring municipalities, the city's own population being nearly static. That is true, but at the same time, the population growth in Greater Victoria as a whole is of benefit to Victoria city, the business centre.

The compromise suggested by Reeve Chatterton, therefore, appears entirely reasonable.

It Was a Signpost

PLANS for the centenary of Confederation in 1967, as yet in embryo only, embrace a variety of projects designed to mark Canada's 100th anniversary as a self-governing nation. Among them has been mentioned some special recognition of the Vimy Ridge battle, which in April of that year will of itself be recorded as a half-century anniversary.

Nothing identified with the modern development of Canada is of greater significance in the calendar of remembrance. Vimy Ridge stands alone as a national pointer in the annals of two world wars. It was the military event which, as with Anzac Day for the Australians, put this country on the map of general awareness. It showed the mettle and the fibre of Canadians in a major engagement carried out by themselves, and stirred the national consciousness. It emancipated them from the colonial-military tradition and was a signpost for the Commonwealth status later embodied in the Statute of Westminster.

It was in April, 1917, that the Canadian Corps stormed the ridge of Vimy, never afterwards in that war to fall from allied hands, and a piece of France that in fact is a part of Canada. The 248 acres of the ridge were ceded to Canada by the French nation and upon it stands the large and impressive memorial—fortunately undamaged in the last war—which was unveiled by King Edward VIII in July, 1936. Of all foreign areas whereon Canadian troops have fought Vimy Ridge has special and abiding connotation.

No national centenary could fail to take notice of this significant event in the history of Canada, and its special recognition during the celebrations of 1967 has a due and prominent claim. Something worthy of the occasion will be expected of the national centennial committee in this regard.

Interpreting the News

Change at Timbuctu

By PHIL NEWSON, UPI Foreign News Analyst

TIMBUKTU, Mali Republic—Dust spurted upward from the big wheels as the feet of the African drums.

It hung for a moment over her brilliant green headscarf and then was lost in the sand clouds rolling in from the Sahara into the impulsive faces of the Tuareg tribesmen, drawn up in a half-mile long line on camels and swift desert horses.

Forming a great, hollow square before a pavilion of untrimmed logs and grass mats the people of Timbuctu were witnessing their passage from medieval to modern times.

The air age had come to Timbuctu. For a thousand years the desert winds have been piling up the sands of the Sahara against Timbuctu, trying to destroy it.

But Timbuctu survived, far-off symbol of the ends of the earth, where the Moslem Middle East met black Africa at the edge of the desert's southern rim, where the caravans met to exchange salt for slaves and where the camel met the canoe.

For Timbuctu lies between the desert and the northern most loop of the great Niger River. At first the river spends its strength on the desert, but just beyond Timbuctu it begins its 1,300-mile swing southward, finally to emerge into the South Atlantic from its delta mouths in Nigeria.

Timbuctu might have retained its mysterious and ancient ways except for three things:

Mali's new-found freedom as an African republic, the fact that Mali is another of Africa's cold-war prizes, and the airplane.

Last Saturday, an Air France DC-4 from Dakar stopped off in Mali's capital of Bamako, picked up 17 high-ranking foreign representatives to the Mali government and flew on to Timbuctu.

The DC-4 flight was a final, friendly gesture toward the people of Mali by the French government-controlled Air France. For henceforth, Air Mali would take over the internal routes.

Here on the desert's edge, in Timbuctu's narrow, sand-filled streets, in the mud houses and dusty market places, more existence is a savage contest.

Here, the swaggering desert Tuaregs, with their swords and spears dating back to the Crusades, once were the raiders.

Today, they are reduced by the very people they once enslaved.

Ancient suspicions and violent hatreds do not disappear with a new airline or a new flag. Nor was this lost on the visiting ambassadors summoned by the Mali government. U.S. ambassador T. K. Wright, in Mali only about four months, rubbed shoulders with Red China's Lai Ya-Li and Russia's grey mustached and jovial Alexander Ivanovich Luchinskikov.

In the international rivalry, the new Mali airline will receive transports both from the United States and Russia.

The cold war, battle here as yet has been neither won nor lost, but the government is Marxist-leaning and the Reds are moving swiftly.

Mayor Haidara-Mahamane may have provided a key in his welcoming address at Timbuctu's new air strip. He reminded the people drawn up in a great hollow square that they were Moslem. He told the visitors that outside interference is not wanted here.

"I hold in my hand a list of 179 million U.S. underground Communist agents!"

Thinking Aloud

... of shoes—and ships—and sailing wax—of cabbages and kings"

By TOM TAYLOR

IF he is still alive, and the beard he wore when I saw him may have had nothing to do with age, I suppose he is sitting there yet. Not far from the de Lesseps statue at Port Said that was.

The first time I noticed him, a nondescript Arab in a faded blue gown, I scarcely noticed him—if you'll pardon the contradiction. It was a year later that I again passed his way and then I remembered having seen him before.

It could have been his twin, of course, but I assumed otherwise. And he looked as though he'd never moved during the intervening 12 months.

I never thought of him again until the other night when captively I listened to a commercial about "that tired feeling." My Arab friend leapt from the back of my mind as though he were a genie.

All human beings, it has been said, are inherently lazy and have to be prodded to get a move on. That is why so many people wish they had been born rich instead of looking for it. Given this blessing, or sedative, presumably they would behave like the Port Said Arab.

Perhaps this column is itself of traditional genre, hating to do today what might be done tomorrow; else why recall a man in a nondescript blue gown.

The item that brought this up however was not precisely about the normal lazy feeling most of us are familiar with. It had a psychiatric slant. It suggested, for instance, that often enough fatigue had nothing to do with physical tiredness, but was an entirely imaginative state.

As, possibly, when one finishes cutting the lawn and sinks back into a favorite chair—in a state of suspended animation.

This was so interesting a proposition I read on quickly, to discover that when inertia grips one in such guise it may simply have been conjured up to escape some unpleasant duty. "Many a brilliant but frustrated person, it seems, has hidden behind a 'false fatigue' front."

I have a notion that many a person who is neither brilliant nor frustrated has evoked the same alibi. The psychiatrist who projects this theory of non-physical fatigue can point to some celebrated examples. Samuel Johnson for one. Boswell said of him that sometimes he was so languid he couldn't read the hour hand on the clock.

Strangely, this is exactly the state many of us are in at, say, seven o'clock in the morning, so one can well believe that the reason is an induced distaste for the unpleasant task of getting up.

Charles Darwin is another who is alleged to have conjured a state of ease to avoid unpleasant exertion. He was so allergic, I believe, he could hardly bear the fatigue of being present at his daughter's wedding.

There could perhaps be a more mundane explanation of this, of course; perhaps he was paralyzed by thought of the bills he would have to pay. But Tachikowsky too had bouts of fictional laziness. "At the least exercise," he wrote in his diary, "it seems as though I have a nail in my brain." This is quite a recognizable symptom even if one never composes a Nutcracker Suite.

You see how it is, however, that your secret fatigue has been exposed for the fraud it is. Actually the thesis is not new. It is as old as Beelzebub. The idea that people pretend to be tired in order to dodge unpleasant duties is firmly established.

But now it has been promulgated aloud the alibi apt to be useless in future. What a pity.

More than ever now do my thoughts fly to that squatting Arab figure. Probably he never heard of frustration or imaginative fatigue. He did just what came naturally to him.

He sat. Lucky fellow.

Washington Calling

The Going Is Rough

By MARQUIS CHILDS

AT the beginning of his fourth month in the White House, the new president was feeling the full force of the turbulence from every corner of the globe. It was far and away the worst week he has known.

Shortly after 5 a.m. on Monday he was awakened at Glen Ora, his retreat at Middleburg, Va., with the news of the landing of Cuban exile forces. That was the start and from there on out in one area after another the pressures built up.

In Cuba the decision had been taken and this meant three or four days of painful watching and waiting for the outcome. The pressures bearing down on him were to compel him to make other almost equally grave decisions. The double squeeze was on between Cuba on one side of the world and Laos on the other.

When the Soviet note to the British on the Laos peace terms was finally transmitted it presented the dilemma of a delay in the cease-fire with a continuing Communist take-over versus Western action in reprisal in the most acute form. Since the note indicated that May 5 would be the earliest date that members of the International Control Commission could be assembled in Laos, then there could be no real determination of an effective cease-fire before then.

This was a shrewd piece of Soviet strategy, seeming to accede to the call for a cease-fire and yet putting it off into a still more distant future. In the nearly three weeks that have elapsed since agreement in principle on a cease-fire was reached the rebel forces in Laos have made important gains. The maps the president displayed at his press conference when he warned of the danger to the free world in Laos under control of the Communist and Communist-supplied rebels.

What the president and his closest advisers have found particularly disturbing in a troubled week is the evidence that Premier Khrushchev equates Cuba and Laos. That is to say, he assumes the action taken in Cuba against Fidel Castro is a counter move to make up for the Western setback in Laos.

In this view, imposing Communist terms and Communist objectives on the American relationship with Cuba, the president instigated the attack on Cuba solely to pay back Moscow. Therefore, Moscow responds with bigger and louder threats and the game, under Moscow rules, of matching Cuba

Reports From Ottawa

AFTER more than three years of knocking on the government's door asking for adequate copyright protection, authors and writers have only a half promise that maybe the government will get around to doing something for them next year. Or the year after.

To Liberal MP Judy LaMarsh, of Niagara Falls, this isn't good enough. And so she intends to introduce a bill of her own in the Commons to have Parliament ratify the Universal Copyright Convention signed at Geneva in 1952.

Miss LaMarsh is realistic enough to know that Parliament won't pass her bill. There are 202 Conservatives MPs who can be counted on to block it. But what she does expect her bill to do is to put pressure on the government to stop stalling both the ratification of the 1952 copyright treaty and the modernization of this country's copyright laws. And if her bill proves politically embarrassing for the Tories, so much the better—for, she says, it's their own fault.

Ninety nations signed the Geneva copyright convention, including Canada, the United States, and practically all other countries except those of the Communist bloc. But Canada did not cross the final "t" by having Parliament pass validating legislation. So for nine years Canadian authors and writers have had to operate without protection the Geneva convention provides against the pirating of their works abroad.

The reason the former Liberal government gave for not ratifying the convention immediately was that it wanted a long and careful look taken at Canada domestic copyright legislation. Intrinsic to this is how the new international convention would complement our own law. So in 1954 Prime Minister St. Laurent appointed a royal commission headed by the former finance minister, Mr. Justice Ilesley, to make an exhaustive study.

The Ilesley royal commission reported to the new Diefenbaker government in 1957, strongly recommending parliamentary ratification of the Geneva agreement. But to the frustration of the Canadian Authors' Association the government did nothing, and did it for a period now going on four years.

However, last January, Secretary of State Dorian told a meeting of printing industry people that the government is concerned over lack of copyright protection in the United States for the output of Canadian printing presses. He said he hoped to have the Department of External Affairs make representations to the State Department in Washington to persuade the Congress to amend the United States law to make Canadian copyright of Canadian works a valid protection in the United States.

This proposal verged on the ludicrous, because all the government had to do to obtain such protection was have Parliament pass a law validating the Geneva convention.

Because of the government's failure to do this—presumably because it has been preoccupied with more important matters—Canadian authors publish their books in the United States under United States copyright, and Canada forfeits to the United States an industrial activity worth about $11,000,000 a year.

Last month Dorian told the authors' association he hopes to introduce a bill next session to revise the Copyright Act, and that "early ratification" of the Geneva agreement "is not being forgotten."

And in this corner, ladies and gents, Judy LaMarsh, the Niagara Needle, to make sure that the government doesn't forget.

AMONG the causes of Russian-Chinese tension, certain points of friction attract special attention. Ideological differences are one of them. So is demographic pressure and the Chinese regime's xenophobia, which applies equally to Russians and Westerners. Frequently mentioned is the USSR's forcible occupation of Chinese land, especially Outer Mongolia. On the other hand, much too often the discrepancies in evaluation of the international situation are underestimated.

The Chinese treat Americans and their friends as a "paper tiger." Peiping seems seriously convinced that the great Western defence system is only bluff. A dynamic, even military action, would thus involve no real risk. Like Hitler before the Second World War, Mao Tse-tung and his followers consider the Free World as decadent and hence too cowardly to stand by its word.

The Russians, on the other hand, do not share their Asiatic allies' optimism. Of course, the USSR, given an occasion, is ready to attack, even to engage in a limited war. But Moscow also is convinced that there are certain points beyond which it would be too dangerous to go. Whatever the Soviet press and propaganda may say, Khrushchev and his collaborators know that the West is not as feeble as they pretend.

This difference in judgment is of paramount importance. Technically, Russia today is the ally of China. An advantage initiated by Peiping might involve Moscow. Hence, it is significant to note that the most recent Soviet manoeuvres have tried to limit their country's commitments and to prepare a back door through which to escape if things really get rough. This understandably irritates the Chinese.

This state of affairs illustrates a development in international politics which goes far beyond the limits of Communist countries. The technological revolution since 1945 has changed the meaning of alliances. Up to that time, a power going to war to help a friend shared with the latter, in case of defeat, the inevitable political, economic and territorial consequences. On the other hand, the danger of total obliteration scarcely existed.

At present, nuclear weapons have made this a distinct possibility.

The decision on the part of a nation armed with nuclear weapons to enter a war—if a similarly equipped state stands in the opposite side—is tantamount to acceptance of the risk of national death. It is most unlikely that a responsible government should be ready to face such a prospect, except in order to meet an immediate and direct threat of its own existence. This leads to devaluation, at least in a very large measure, of traditional military pacts. Nuclear powers are forced to take special political precaution which leads them to what is rightly called "atomic paralysis."

In the Communist world, where Russia still has the monopoly of the supreme weapon, this fact is the source of extraordinary difficulties. Of course, Moscow-Peiping rivalry would exist anyhow. But it is unquestionably increased by the added burden.

These problems in the East show that the spread of nuclear know-how in the Free World is not the catastrophe imagined by many ideologues. If a certain freedom of movement has been maintained within the framework of the Western alliance, it is due in large part to the fact that France and Great Britain have joined the "Atomic Club" by their own efforts. We should nevertheless draw from this the conclusion that exaggerated secrecy among allies is unwise and that it is high time to replace uneconomic duplication of efforts with true scientific cooperation and effective sharing of the task.

SPAIN'S FRANCO

Demanded Food as Price for War

Franco Wouldn't Attack Gibraltar for Hitler

LONDON (Reuters)—Hitler pressured Spanish head of state Francisco Franco into agreeing conditionally to enter the Second World War in the early stages on the side of Germany, captured Nazi documents showed Monday.

The German foreign ministry documents, covering the period from September, 1940, to January, 1941, showed Hitler wanted Franco's forces to attack Gibraltar during the winter of 1940-1941. But Franco insisted Hitler send enough grain to alleviate famine conditions in Spain before he would fix a date for a Spanish assault on the British colonial fortress at the mouth of the Mediterranean.

The documents, published here officially, were edited by a combined team of British, U.S. and French diplomatic historians. The documented story of Hitler-Franco relations unfolded chronologically. On Dec. 8, 1940, Nazi Admiral Wilhelm Canaris was told to ask Franco to name a date for a Spanish attack on Gibraltar.

The next day a stiff note from Berlin came rocketing back to Madrid.

The note opened by stating that "without the help" of Hitler and Italian dictator Benito Mussolini "there would not today be any nationalist Spain" with Franco at its head.

But throughout January, 1941, Franco evaded pressures to set a date for the attack on Gibraltar. Another section of the documents dealt with first Russian suspicions of Hitler's plan to move against the Soviet Union. They also showed secret moves by Nazi leader Rudolf Hess for a negotiated peace with Britain and unsuccessful Soviet-German talks to carve up the British Empire.

Taxes Cut, Ages Ago

FAYGATE, England (CP)—A memorial to a successful plea for tax relief, on a broken tablet in polished black stone, has been found in Hesse. The memorial was made in 150 B.C. by the people of a Mediterranean island.

Letters to the Editor

Driving Terrifying

I read in the Colonist (April 20) that there has been a considerable increase in car deaths and property damage, and that many accidents are happening in 30-mile-an-hour zones. This does not seem surprising to me. The driving here is terrifying.

Drivers wander all over the road, turn left from the right side and turn right from the middle. The most upsetting habit is that of keeping right up against the centre line. Why is this so prevalent?

Why do drivers here not drive on the right and move to the centre when they intend a left turn? Why don't your police educate the public to the fact that middle of the road motorists are as much a menace as speeders?

What causes so many young as well as older drivers here to cling to the white line, even on broad avenues? Next time I visit Victoria I'll leave the car in Vancouver and hire a taxicab.

Sign Battle

Mr. Glen Hamilton's attack on George Chatterton, over the sign erected on the Hamilton property, is disgusting.

His statement, as quoted in the Colonist, that Mr. Chatterton's actions "smack of South Africa," is cheap and degrading.

Let us examine the facts and judge for ourselves.

1. Mr. Hamilton breaks a law of the community in which he lives.

2. When the authorities of that community (not Chatterton) take the proper action to enforce the law, Mr. Hamilton cries persecution and dictatorship.

The above tactics are in such common use all over the world that the country of which they smack need hardly be mentioned.

Religion in Schools

I was glad to read in your paper, April 24, of the firm stand taken on religion in schools by Archbishop Sexton and the 200 delegates to the synod.

Why must B.C. be the laggard province of Canada on this matter? With the example of England and Australia we must go forward. Religion is essential to our children not only in the home but in our schools; it will form the foundation of Christian character.

(Mrs.) E. MUSGRAVE.

Enough Misery

The Colonist is to be commended for the war psychology on its front page of April 21, as if there isn't enough misery on this planet now. People aren't dying fast enough from car accidents, suicides, alcoholism, starvation and other social sickness.

The Colonist wants the masses to snuggle up close to nuclear ideology and chase out the big bad state capitalists in favor of "our" clean white "private" entrepreneurs.

Are you ready to die in defence of your instalment plans and tranquilizers?

Mock Mishap Becomes Real Thing

BAKEWELL, England (Reuters)—A mock accident in an exercise designed to eliminate cave-exploring mishaps turned into a real emergency Sunday.

John Semple, 19, volunteered to go down a 200-foot deep abandoned mine as the "victim" of an accident.

The idea was that John, weighing 196 pounds, would be a difficult type of cave explorer for rescue workers to save.

He was. Three members of the Derbyshire cave rescue organization went down the mine, and then reported John was trapped.

It took 100 rescue workers, working in relays, four hours to bring John to the surface on a stretcher.

STOCKHOLM (Reuters)—A 64-cannon warship that sank in Stockholm harbor in 1625 was brought to the surface Monday in a spectacular salvage operation.

A triumphant fanfare was sounded by Swedish marine band as the ship, the Vasa, emerged from the water cradled by cranes.

FIVE-YEAR TASK—The $1,000,000 salvage operation to raise the Vasa from 108 feet of water began in 1956. Most of the money was raised through voluntary contributions.

The warship, built for King Gustavus Adolphus' navy when Sweden was a great power, sank on her maiden voyage when caught in a squall.

PRIMITIVE BELL—Less than 50 years later most of her guns were recovered with the aid of a primitive diving bell.

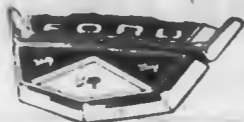

The Vasa is nearly two centuries older than Nelson's British flagship Victory—until now the oldest ship fully identifiable and preserved.

WELL PRESERVED—Apart from her masts, which snapped off when she capsized, the Vasa is well preserved because of the low salt content of the Baltic Sea, the absence of ship-worm and the lack of a tide in the waters where she has been lying 118 fathoms deep.

No Limit on Budget For U.S. Defence

Satellite Killer 'Urgent'

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Sen. Henry Jackson proposed Monday an immediate U.S. start on an anti-satellite missile because of the military implications of Russia's man-in-space feat.

The Washington Democrat said "we are not going to start shooting down foreign satellites."

DOUBLE REPLY
But he said such a weapon would be a diplomatic and military answer to the Soviet space threat.

Jackson, who heads the weapons subcommittee of the Senate-House atomic energy committee and is a member of the Senate space committee, said the manned space flight by Russian Maj. Yuri Gagarin, coupled with the admitted Soviet lead in rocket thrust, raised the possibility that Russia could put a weapons platform in orbit.

POINTS UP
This, Jackson added, "points up the necessity of having an anti-satellite missile."

Such a weapon would be a safeguard against a potential space platform and an important bargaining tool in persuading the Soviets to include space weapons in any general disarmament pact.

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP)—Tom Mboya, general secretary of the Kenya African National Union, has denounced the Kenya African Democratic Union's decision to co-operate in forming a government for the British colony.

Back from a 12-day visit to the United States, Canada and Britain, Mboya said on arrival at Nairobi that the decision is "a betrayal of the good faith of all of us... when under Jomo Kenyatta's chairmanship we agreed on unity and joint consultation on national issues."

NEW YORK (UPI)—Defence Secretary Robert McNamara said yesterday the American economy could sustain greater spending for defence, if necessary.

"We can and must expend whatever is needed to protect the lives and substance of our people," he said.

McNamara, speaking to the American Newspaper Publishers' Association, said President Kennedy has ruled that proposed military budgets should be prepared without any arbitrary limit on spending.

MINIMUM INCREASE
If the nation plans intelligently, McNamara said, an increase in America's capacity to deter and defend itself against the risk of future wars, big and little, could be achieved with a minimum increase in cost.

"I am not saying that our defences are inadequate to the present danger," he said. "But we must act today to strengthen deterrent power for the future."

McNamara said he had received these two basic instructions from the president:

● "Our own national security and our contributions to the reduction of international tensions depend on our military strength. Therefore, our defence program must not be constructed within arbitrary budget ceilings."

● "While the size and composition of our military establishment is being examined and re-examined to make sure it is adequate and up-to-date, at the same time every possible effort must be made to eliminate waste, duplication and unjustifiable expenditure."

McNamara dwelt also on his efforts to increase preparations for non-nuclear war, saying: "This does not modify existing national policy to employ nuclear weapons when it is necessary to do so. Rather it is designed to avoid situations in which we might be forced to use nuclear weapons."

$14,500,000 Swindle Bared

INDIANAPOLIS (AP)—The finance centre, which processes payrolls for the entire U.S. army, Monday began rounding up 13 insurance salesmen, 11 present and former soldiers and three U.S. Army civil servants on charges of perpetrating a $14,500,000 insurance swindle.

About 1,700 fraudulent authorization for insurance premium allotments were discovered here at the army finance centre, which processes payrolls for the entire U.S. army.

One of the first men arrested, on a charge of conspiring to falsify federal papers, was Charles Berling, 49, branch chief in the accounts control division at the finance centre.

The fraud involved forging soldiers' names and serial numbers to an army form authorizing deduction of allotments for families, insurance premiums and other purposes. The FBI said the army recovered more than $70,000 paid the losers from the scheme.

Paris Stocks Food, Gold

PARIS (Reuters)—Messages of sympathy and support flowed from the world into the office of President de Gaulle Monday as he faced a military revolt in Algeria.

At the same time, Parisians reacted to the crisis in an almost traditional manner, by stocking up on food and hoarding gold Napoleon coins.

President Kennedy assured de Gaulle of his "continuing friendship and support as well as that of the American people."

British Prime Minister Macmillan sent a message of good will and friendship.

The committee of ministers of the 15-nation Council of Europe Monday in Strasbourg, France, sent a message to the French government expressing "sympathy and entire solidarity" in the crisis.

The French Federation of the Algerian National Movement said it stood ready to take up arms at the side of France "to bar the war to the colonialist ultras, our common enemy."

Paris housewives lined up in front of stores, to lay in supplies of food. Biggest sales were of canned goods, sugar, cookies, macaroni and noodles.

The gold market soared as the Napoleon coin disappeared into secret caches.

wanted 200 new dentists NOW

British Columbia needs 200 new dentists—and needs them now. So acute is the shortage of qualified men that many areas of B.C. have no readily available dental service at all. And the trouble is—dentists are not trained overnight. It takes at least six years of intensive University study to become a dentist. Although the University of British Columbia does not as yet have a Dental Faculty, there are several excellent schools in Canada to provide such training. B.C. dentists have a big job on their hands. Are you willing to help? If so, write for our pamphlet, Dentistry As a Career. No other profession will offer you greater opportunities to help your fellow men. And none is quite so vital to your community now.

Terror Fighters In Angola

LISBON (AP)—Portugal is pouring thousands of troops into its territories on opposite sides of Africa, seeking to curb terrorism in Angola and prevent it from starting in Mozambique.

Between 2,500 and 3,000 troops have been flown to Angola, by unofficial estimate, since Premier Antonio de Oliveira Salazar took personal charge of the Portuguese ministry 11 days ago.

These troops are to bolster security forces in the West Africa territory on the Atlantic coast, where bloodshed began March 16.

Hundreds of Portuguese commandos and paratroops have gone to Mozambique, the East-Africa territory on the Indian Ocean.

Cancer in Rats Started, Cured

WASHINGTON (UPI)—For the first time in history a quick and certain method has been perfected for starting and then curing breast cancer in rats, a U.S. scientist said Monday.

Developer of the technique is Dr. Charles Huggins of the Ben May laboratory for cancer research of the University of Chicago.

He said it provides science with an important new tool not only for investigation of cancer but also for making quick tests to spot the presence in food of substances capable of causing breast tumors.

Another scientist called the new method "a technical breakthrough in breast cancer research."

Breast cancer is by far the commonest type of cancer among western peoples.

Liquor Control Board or by the Government of British Columbia.

VANCOUVER (CP) — A North Vancouver magistrate has taken the opposite view to an earlier ruling in Lillooet by rejecting an argument that the Canadian Bill of Rights overrides sections of the federal Indian Act dealing with liquor regulations.

Magistrate A. E. Pool made the ruling in finding Harvey Gonzales, 38, of the Mission reserve guilty of possession of beer off the reserve contrary to section 94 of the Indian Act. Gonzales was fined $10 for the offence which occurred last March 18.

SIMILAR CASE

Magistrate Pool's finding was opposite to that made in a similar case last month by Magistrate E. E. Angman of Lillooet in which Magistrate Angman dismissed a charge of possession of liquor off the reserve on the grounds the section contravened the Bill of Rights.

Attorney-General Bonner has directed his department to appeal Magistrate Angman's decision in order to get a high court ruling on the matter.

EQUAL RIGHTS

Lawyer Tom Hurley, counsel for Gonzales, argued that section 94 is contrary to the Bill of Rights, because it discriminates against Indians. He quoted the Bill of Rights' assertion that "equal rights must be enjoyed by all the citizens" of Canada.

Magistrate Pool said, discrimination may exist, but it may not be adverse. In the section under dispute, it was for the benefit of Indians.

Police Notified

Girl, 15 Missing Four Days

Anna Marie Como, 15-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Como of 4034 Cumberland, has been missing since last Thursday, her parents have advised Saanich police.

About 7:30 p.m. Thursday, Mrs. Como drove her daughter to a friend's home, but she did not return to her own home afterward.

Her parents feel something impelled their daughter to run away, but there was no prior indication of such a plan.

FIVE FEET SIX

Anna Marie is five feet, six inches tall, weighing 130 pounds, with light brown hair and blue eyes. When last seen she was wearing blue-checked slacks, a turquoise Jimmy Dean jacket, black flat shoes and beige silk headscarf, and was carrying a black purse.

Anyone knowing anything of her whereabouts is asked to get in touch with Saanich police.

Material Wealth Hit by Gagliardi

PRINCE GEORGE (AP) — People are too materialistic, says British Columbia Highways Minister Gagliardi.

"We place too much significance on material wealth when it should be on God," he said.

One reason more people don't attend church was because "church has become a cold thing."

"A church should be a happy place. It isn't a place where you put on a long face when going in and wear a longer one coming out."

1. TENSION IN GOLF IS HARD TO DEFINE, BUT IT'S NO GOOD ABOUT WHAT IT CAN DO TO YOUR SWING. GOLFERS STARTING WITH A VERY TIGHT GRIP OR "TIGHT" SWING, AS IT'S CALLED, WILL NEVER BE ABLE TO EXECUTE A POWERFUL SWING.

2. STARTING OUT WITH A LIGHT GRIP HAS THE ADVANTAGE AS YOU BRING YOUR HANDS TOGETHER, YOUR GRIP BECOMES FIRMER AND YOUR SWING BECOMES STRONGER.

3. IF YOU DON'T KNOW HOW TO BRING YOUR HANDS TOGETHER, TRY THIS: HOLD THE CLUB WITH BOTH HANDS, WITH THE THUMB OF EACH HAND ON THE TOP OF THE CLUB. BRING YOUR HANDS TOGETHER, AND YOUR GRIP BECOMES FIRMER AND YOUR SWING BECOMES STRONGER.

Nine Straight for Tigers As Lary Tames Yanks Again

Detroit Tigers, baseball's early-season sensations, are perched atop the American League standings today and manager in three years, looks like he'll be in Tigertown for a long time to come.

Scheffing, fired as manager of Chicago Cubs in 1959, is being hailed as a miracle man in Detroit. His Tigers, who lost their opener 13 days ago, have been unbeatable since. Yesterday, with Frank Lary at his best, they beat New York Yankees, 4-3, to stretch their winning streak to nine games, longest for the Tigers since the 1949 edition won 10 in a row.

Lary, the league's most successful Yankee killer, tossed a seven-hitter for his third straight victory. Yanks threatened to pull it out in the seventh when Bill Skowron homered to make it 4-2, but Jesse Gonder hit into a double play with two men on, and Tony Kubek flied out.

Sunday it was Jim Donohue, a 22-year-old right-hander who did not figure to stick with the club this season, who did most of the damage for Tigers on a homer by Bobby Gene Smith in the bottom of the ninth, only the third hit given up by Dick Ellsworth.

Warren Spahn, Milwaukee's brilliant left-hander, celebrated his 40th birthday with a classy seven-hitter for his 28th victory and first of the season as the Braves beat the Pirates, 3-1, and handed Vernon Law his third straight loss.

And Wally Moon stretched his hitting streak to 12 games with his eighth "moon shot" homer into the left-field screen of Los Angeles Coliseum while Dodgers beat Cincinnati, 5-1.

In the American League, Cleveland and Kansas City tied the major league record and set a new one for their own league by using 14 pitchers, seven each, before the As won, 10-8, on a throwing error in the ninth.

Several years after Babe Ruth packed it in as a player, he signed on with the Brooklyn Dodgers as a coach whose principal duty was to hit home runs in batting practice to entertain the customers. By this time the Phillies had moved from old Baker Bowl, the only privy with a scoreboard in the big leagues, to Shibe Park, where the Babe had swatted them through all his seasons in the American League.

"What do you remember best about this park?" he was asked the first time he accompanied the Dodgers to Philadelphia.

"The (naughty word) day I hit that (naughty word) ball into that (naughty word) street over there, Opal Street," he said, nodding toward right field.

As any good Philadelphia could tell you, Shibe Park is bounded on the right by 20th Street. Chances are not many Philadelphians could tell you the name of the little street, hardly more than an alley, a short block east of 20th.

That is Opal Street, and yet they say the Babe couldn't even remember the names of his own teammates. Well, he might call Bob Shawkey "Horse Nose" because he couldn't remember his square name, and he might call Waite Hoyt or Tony Lazzeri or Bob Meusel "Pal," for the same reason, but he wasn't a guy to forget the name of any naughty word street a whole naughty word block from the naughty word ball park if he had hit a naughty word home run into it.

For the Bats and Owls

That was Babe Ruth's dearest memory of Shibe Park. A lot of other memories were stirred in a lot of other minds when the Phillies' owner, Bob Carpenter, sold the old middle ground as a housing project for bats and owls. Connie Mack Stadium, they call it now, though when Connie was alive he opposed changing the name because he felt that as long as the joint stood it should remain a memorial to Benjamin F. Shibe, the man who brought American League baseball to Philadelphia.

Shibe Park was distinguished as the only drydock in the major leagues. One of the Shibe sons, a yachting enthusiast, kept a whole fleet stored under the left field stands, and when Jimmy Fox or Al Simmons or Bob Johnson was smashing the furniture in that sector, the grounds crew used to say he had hit one into the boat-house.

Fans are forever arguing about who hit the longest home run ever—Ruth believes this longest was belted out of Plant Field in Tampa—but until Arthur Patterson introduced the tape measure in recent years, there was no sure basis of comparison. Still a stickout in personal memory is one that Foxx dreamed in Philadelphia. It looked like a low line drive streaking over the infield, but it was still climbing when it clipped the very peak of the roofed upper deck in left and took off for the clouds. Three days later a small boy in Bustleton, on the northeast fringe of town, found a baseball with snow on it.

Even more vivid is the memory of a less violent smash which had louder repercussions. It was during the World Series of 1931, when the Cardinals' Pepper Martin was slugging pitchers like Lefty Grove and George Earnshaw as though they were Little Leaguers and stealing everything but Mickey Cochrane's drawers. The team had split the first four games and, as it is recalled now, the fifth was tied when Martin came up about the seventh or eighth inning.

"Well," said a guy in the press box, "so far he has singled, doubled, tripled, bunted safely, and stolen everything in sight. There's nothing left now except to belt one into—"

The sound of wood splintering in left field interrupted him. The next sound heard was the dull plop of Connie's three-time pennant winners falling on their heads.

Good and Faithful Servant

The Shibe Park press attendant was a cheerful little greaser named Walter. If he had a last name, it was his own secret. One of his duties was to take the press box elevator down to the ground floor in the eighth inning and hold it there so Connie could duck out of the dugout as the game ended and ride to his tower office.

One afternoon in 1945 the Athletics and Tigers were tied, one to one, in the eighth. Walter took the car down and held the door open to keep it there. He was back beneath the stands out of sight of the field.

Nobody scored in the ninth and the game went into extra innings. It was still tied after twelve innings, after fifteen, after eighteen, after twenty-one. The rules then forbade completing a day game under the lights. After twenty-four innings the score was still tied, one to one, and the umpire called it. For sixteen innings, something more than three hours, Walter had stood with his foot in the door.

Perrin Most Likely Prospect To Keep Hockey in Victoria

By JIM TANG

Jack Perrin, who couldn't get any support at all in his bid to get the San Francisco franchise when the Western Hockey League finally decided to expand to take in two California cities, looks as the only reasonable hope of keeping professional hockey in Victoria.

Rumors circulated yesterday that an unnamed group was "interested" in getting a Victoria franchise seemed to have little substance in fact and were discounted by league president Al Leader.

"I have heard nothing about it," he said. "There are no many difficulties involved that it is highly unlikely."

Leader said that if anyone could show league directors proof of financial stability as well as proof of ability to get playing personnel that the possibility existed that Victoria might get a franchise.

"We are meeting again in Calgary on June 8," he continued, "and it would not be impossible to work Victoria into our schedule at that date."

Leader, however, pointed out that it would be practically impossible for anyone but an established operator to get players and the chances of anyone satisfying league directors on that score was highly remote.

But Leader showed immediate interest when asked if he thought the league would approve if Perrin should decide to move his Winnipeg franchise to Victoria.

"I feel certain," he said, "that most clubs would welcome that move if Mr. Perrin wanted to make it. Winnipeg is a long way away and none of the Coast clubs are relishing the thought of those long trips to Manitoba."

IN FAVOR

"You know," he added, "that's not a bad thought at all."

George Agar, last coach of the Cougars, echoed Leader's sentiments.

That makes sense," he said. "He (Perrin) has a better chance of making money here than he has in Winnipeg."

Perrin decided Sunday to continue operations in Winnipeg when he lost San Francisco. He operates two junior clubs in Winnipeg and has to remain in professional hockey to keep his minor hockey setup.

HAS TALENT

And he has a source of playing talent, having a solid agreement with Boston Bruins which makes his club their No. 1 farm team. But he reportedly dropped a huge sum in Winnipeg this season and prospects for better support next season are not considered too good.

He couldn't be reached last night for comment but anyone interested in keeping hockey here should look first in his direction.

WHL to Move South; Seeks Major Status

VANCOUVER—What they termed as their first move towards obtaining recognition as a major league was finally made on Sunday by the directors of the Western Hockey League when they awarded Victoria-owner Jim Piggott a Los Angeles franchise, and Coley Hall, one-time owner of the Vancouver Canucks, a San Francisco franchise.

With the Comets deciding to stay in Spokane and Jack Perrin, who lost out in the bidding for San Francisco, stating he would continue operations in Winnipeg, the WHL is expected to be a nine-team league next season.

Dropped after 12 seasons were Victoria Cougars.

Al Leader, who received a new three-year contract as president, said "that the next step in reaching top professional status will be the completion of new arenas in Seattle, Vancouver and Edmonton."

"We intend to reach major league status in three to five years and to challenge the National Hockey League for the Stanley Cup."

Leader pointed out that the two California cities will have arenas which will seat from 12,000 to 14,000 fans, that Portland has a new arena which holds 10,000 and that Calgary and Spokane have adequate ice facilities. A new arena is under construction in Seattle and moves are underway for new arenas in Edmonton and Vancouver.

Decision to expand to California had been expected for some weeks but it took count less hours of wrangling and hotel-room dealing before the franchises were awarded.

Piggott had the inside track from the start for Los Angeles but considerable controversy developed over San Francisco. It was reported that there was strong opposition to the bid made by Perrin and the Spokane owners and Hall became a late starter. When the vote was put, he is said to have received seven of the eight votes.

Despite the labored decision, there were still some doubts that the league would start next season as advertised.

One problem that still has to be settled is the installation of an ice plant at San Francisco's Cow Palace. This is the responsibility of Hall, who still has to come to an agreement with the owners of the Cow Palace. The work has to be done between next month and August and any delay in getting started could prove disastrous.

And while Perrin announced his intention of continuing in Winnipeg, there were many who believed that he might change his mind before a league meeting set for Calgary on June 8.

A league stretching from Los Angeles to Winnipeg creates almost impossible travel and schedule problems and Winnipeg this season had the lowest attendance in the league.

However, there is not much time between seasons in modern hockey and the league has to push on with its present plans.

TO FIGHT DRAFT

As another move towards major status, it will seek exemption from the player draft which enables NHL clubs to draft WHL players for a set price of $20,000.

It was also decided to continue with a 70-game schedule and agreement was reached in principle on a gate split and a travel pool. It is believed that visiting teams next season will get 30 per cent of the gate receipts.

The schedule will be as evenly balanced as possible and directors turned thumbs down on a two-division operation. Clubs will be required to carry one rookie all season.

NEW BIDDERS

Directors also considered a bid from Long Beach, Calif., for a franchise for the 1962-63 season.

It was made by Art Edwards, a Long Beach businessman, who told the league that a new arena seating 15,000 will be completed early in 1963.

His application will be discussed again at the Calgary meeting but no decision is expected until next year.

Garden Notes

'Dragon' Has Jaws

By M. V. CHESNUT, FRANK

I think about the most versatile of all our bedding-out plants is the Antirrhinum, affectionately known as the snapdragon by reason of the fact that, when pressure is applied to the sides of the flower with thumb and forefinger, the "jaws" will open in a most realistic manner.

Here we have a flower that can be put to work in almost any part of the garden. For the back of the border we have tall varieties, often sold under such names as Skyscraper and Colossal, ranging from three to four feet in height. For the middle rows and for smaller beds, we have the intermediates, two to 2½ feet tall. The dwarf and semi-dwarf varieties, 12 to 18 inches, are ideal for the front of the border or general bedding and there is even a wee fellow called nanum compactum or Tom Thumb which is perfectly at home in a rock garden or as an edging plant.

Every color in the spectrum is represented except blue and there are some exceptionally appealing bicolors such as rose pink edged in yellow, scarlet and gold, amber and cream. We have the "Tetra" snaps, with very large, frilly flowers and stems as thick as your thumb, we have rust-resistant snaps and we have the new F-1 (first generation) hybrids of phenomenal vigor—the seeds may cost as much as $1 a packet as the flowers must be crossed by hand.

In planting snaps, it is wise to select a sunny, open well-drained site. These plants are essentially hardy and don't go for much coddling—in fact, they tend to come down with mildew and rust when grown in a sheltered spot where the wind can't sweep through them. Don't worry over the necessity of staking them—even the tallest varieties anchor themselves so firmly that even a gale of hurricane force will seldom do much damage.

Antirrhinums like a fairly rich soil with a bit of lime in it, and it is a good idea to dig over the site to the full depth of the spade, incorporating either well-rotted manure at the rate of three-quarters of a pailful per square yard, or manure's homemade substitute, peat moss soaked in fertilizer, applied at the same rate.

After breaking down the clods and levelling the bed with the rake, tread it firmly, for snaps cannot abide loose soil. Dress the soil with garden lime, one cupful per square yard scattered on the surface, then scratch it in shallowly with the rake.

Take your planting holes out with a hand trowel, making each hole large enough to take the soil ball comfortably. The spacing for the tall varieties is 18 inches apart each way, for the intermediates 12 inches and for Tom Thumb six inches; stagger the rows, so the plants in the second row are opposite the spaces in the first and so on.

At this point, my old friend Pete—peat moss to you—comes to work for me again. I mix one cupful of superphosphate very thoroughly and intimately with one bucketful of damp peat and place a scant handful of the mixture in the bottom of each planting hole. This encourages vigorous root action and, by persuading your snaps to do their first growing at the roots rather than in the top-growth, you lay down the foundation for sturdy, healthy plants.

Plant firmly and deeply, with the bottom leaves only just barely clear of the soil surface, pouring a little water in the hole to settle the soil around the roots and finishing off with loose, dry soil on top.

Antirrhinums planted for bedding display should be headed about a week after setting out, nipping out the top inch of the plant. This induces a branching habit of growth and a more compact and floriferous plant.

In the cut-flower garden, leave your snaps untopped to get fewer but longer stems.

Nothing Too Grim for Joke

It's been a great year for humor whose end, a year or so ago, seemed imminent. When history totes up the facts, 1960-61 will be assessed as the season of the Jack Kennedy youth joke. ("Either you run for President this summer or you got to go to camp," the year Milton Berle left his entire file of jokes on microfilm to the Library of Congress and the year when Shelley Berman sold 1,000,000 records.

Any one of those facts are historic. Taken together, they're practically epic. I can recall only a year or so ago, at the height of the McCarthy reign of intellectual terror, when all humor seemed to have gone underground. That was the era of the silent generation. Humor is by nature anarchistic, disrespectful of authority, above all fearless. The populace, back about mid-decade, was none of these things.

But things are looking up. I knew they would eventually. Any time the President of the United States in the face of ferocious criticism of his appointment of his own brother as Attorney-General can say publicly as he did: "I don't see what the matter with giving Bobby a little legal experience before practicing law." Obviously, the President is not especially fearful of public opinion when he can be so light-hearted.

Thank God, in fact, for the restoration of lightheartedness in public affairs. I by no means give the Kennedy administration all the credit, though I think they deserve some of it. I think the American public deserves most of it. The silent generation is no longer silent; it's vocal, explosive, bubbling with intellectual contents (which are the best kind for producing really cracking humor), at times closely to life around us and to public affairs.

New York is bubbling with little revues in the nightclubs. The Premise, Upstairs at the Downstairs, Stewed Prunes, all of which are satiric commentaries on politics, suburban life, public figures. The hottest new figure around in show business is Bob Newhart with his Button Down Mind.

Since when did the people sit around and listen to the same comedy routine again and again on records? Well, when I was a brot of a boy, I remember "The Two Black Crows" on records. We kids memorized it at Red Arrow Camp, and did it on stunt night. Today's kids do the same thing with Shelley Berman (who is not as funny as he once was), memorizing the inflections as well as the words. Only the singers had this kind of adulation; today the comics are back in the saddle.

Only a few years ago Garry Moore mourned that you couldn't tell jokes about any race, creed, color or profession without getting inundated with mail. But it's not that easy to extinguish the racial joke. The Negro comedian, Dick Gregory, who is being billed as the first stand-up comic of his race, tells jokes like: "My wife's out of town. She's in the Congo teaching the natives how to fight dirty." A couple of years ago, no one could have told that joke—no matter what his color.

We are getting back, bless our little American souls, to the point where there's nothing too serious to joke about. The Jews have a dozen jokes already about the Eichmann trial. "You hear about the Eichmann trial—they settled out of court." If we can joke about Eichmann we can joke about anything.

Racial Contempt Ingrained

By SYDNEY WILLIAMS

(Eleventh of a Series)

My time in South Africa as a Negro was wrought with unhappy experiences even though as a Canadian I was largely protected from indignity by the government.

But racial contempt is so ingrained in many of the whites that it cannot be hidden or restrained.

Mind you, I met good white people. I honestly believe that a majority deplore the racial program, though they fear to attack it openly.

Once I walked down the street with the wife of a white lawyer. I was stopped by a policeman and threatened with a criminal charge when her husband, who was to meet us, arrived. His intervention prevented my arrest.

Many times my taxi was stopped and I was threatened with a search for liquor or weapons.

If I ate with a white person—except those officially approved by the government—better house than his neighbors—it had to be done secretly.

But far, far worse was what I saw happening to others—

Even Wealthy Negroes Receive Same Treatment

But racial contempt is so ingrained in many of the whites that it cannot be hidden or restrained.

I had asked to see the African townships or native communities outside the "white" cities.

In one of the model communities outside the capital, Pretoria, I met two Africans who would be accepted as leading citizens anywhere else.

Both are well-dressed, temperate in manner and expression. Their fortunes were earned in the days before apartheid.

Each today is a prisoner of apartheid.

They must reside on the township's slum street, though each could afford to build a better house than his neighbors.

Each must carry a pass-book, be subjected to interrogation by any policeman, be here were a physician and a merchant with ability and experience.

A junior official spoke up when I suggested such men should be brought into municipal administration.

"If we did that, we'd be stuck with them when we want to move them further away and take over this area for Europeans (white)."

The senior official rebuked him, asked me to please forget what I had heard. The assistant, he added, "has no authority to speak of our policies."

Festival Covers New Ground

By BERT BINNY

Just as the god Argus who, with eyes all round his head, must have seen a lot of sights, so the Greater Victoria Music Festival covers a lot of arts. Having concentrated attention on vocal, piano and accompaniment classes all last week, the festival opened its second week yesterday concentrating on stringed instruments, speech arts, bands, orchestras and folk dancing.

Two high marks featured the first speech arts session before adjudicator Dr. T. H. Karl. They both occurred in the eight-and-under girls' bracket where Deborah Mason and Pamela Stamford made such an excellent case for the existence of fairy-folk in Stella Mead's "If You Don't Believe in Fairies" that they received 92 and 91 points respectively.

Grade 6 of Burnside School collected a very creditable 172/200 in the class for intermediate speech choir, and Grade 4 of St. Ann's Academy had 171 in the Grade 7 and up division.

SAME SCHOOL

Division 18 at Oaklands Elementary, in the Grades 1, 2 and 3 bracket, went home with 175, and Division 7 of Grades 4, 5 and 6 at the same school topped the list with 176.

Violinist Vivienne Abbott took the Musical Art Society $50 bursary in the string classes. She won the intermediate solo with a fine 90, and the runner-up was Ronnie Tucker with 83 in the elementary division.

OPEN CLASS

The Greater Victoria Schools Junior String Ensemble scored a pair of most creditable 88s in the open class and the elementary division of the same group had 86. Gideon Grau was the adjudicator.

The best folk dancing mark was an 88, secured by division 2 of Grade 6 at Monterey. Grade 3 at Sir James Douglas and Oak Bay Junior High were awarded 86 in separate classes by adjudicator Mrs. Helen Goodwin.

SPEECH ARTS

In the evening there were further classes in speech arts at Woodsworth Hall while school orchestras and bands performed at Central Junior High.

Scurrah Trial May 17

Trial of Scurrah Ltd., Victoria women's wear shop accused of destroying and removing "Made in Japan" labels from imported garments, has been set for May 17.

The two-count charge, laid under the federal Customs and Excise Act, brought a "not guilty" plea from the company in city police court.

Victorians Winnifred and Sandor Domokos, charged in city court with conspiracy to commit perjury, yesterday elected trial by judge and jury. Preliminary hearing was set for May 4.

John Chuhaywich, 2510 Garden was found guilty in city court of criminally negligent driving, and remanded to April 28 for probation report and sentence.

Magistrate William Ostler was told that accused was chased through city streets at speeds up to more than 80 miles an hour, going through four stop signs.

Tally-Ho Driver Passes

A well-known figure will be missing when the tourist season opens on Belleville Street this summer.

Sam Smith, 65, the Tally-Ho driver with the big stetson hat and the fancy bow tie, died suddenly on Saturday at the Tally-Ho Ranch at Metchem, looking over the horses he loved so well.

Sam made the headlines in B.C.'s centennial year when some power poles fell near the CPR dock. Sam, who was driving along the street, brought his Tally-Ho team of horses to a quick stop, thus saving from electrocution not only the terrified team, but some 40 YMCA youngsters who were riding the coach.

Glasgow-born and a shipwright on the Clyde, he came to Canada and started farming on the Prairies, where he had a well-known herd of cattle, and established a reputation as a judge of horses.

When war broke out, he came to Victoria and helped the yards turn out tonnage for the war effort.

He is survived by his widow, Kathleen, at 370 Beaumont.

Funeral services will be held today at McCall's at 10.15.

Scholarships Worth $5,000 For Teachers

Education Minister Leslie Peterson said yesterday two or three scholarships of a total value of $5,000 will be awarded by his department to teachers to help provide opportunity for advanced study in education.

Applications for scholarships must be made to the minister before May 15 and application forms may be obtained from the co-ordinator of teacher recruitment, department of education, Victoria, B.C.

"We all recognize the need for leadership," said Mr. Peterson. "Leadership of the highest quality is being given in a quiet, unassuming way by hundreds of people in the teaching profession in the province. They are the ones we should like to honor in the awarding of these special diplomas."

"ROYALITE" - there's a name you know.
But you may never have heard the full Royalite story - the story of how a pioneer Canadian company grew to become Western Canada's largest fully integrated, independent oil company.
Here's how it happened . . .

Royalite's historic #1 well

One of hundreds in production now

Royalite Building, Calgary

DO WE STILL CARRY OUT EXPLORATION? WE SURE DO!

Shot hole survey in Alberta

"BIG STRIKE" IN TURNER VALLEY showed the headlines in the early twenties, when Royalite #4 came in strong with raw gas. This set off the famous Turner Valley oil boom.

WITH THIS DRAMATIC SUCCESS, the newly-formed Royalite Oil Company, Limited was well on its way. It explored, drilled, and built pipelines; its holdings and production grew steadily, until today . . .

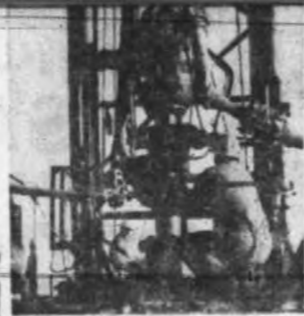

... FORTY YEARS AFTER ITS FOUNDING, Royalite is a 35 million-dollar-a-year business—centrally directed from the Royalite Building, Calgary—and active in all key phases of Canada's fast-expanding petroleum industry. Let's look at some aspects of these operations . . .

A search for signs of oil

DRILLING IS A MIGHTY EXPENSIVE INVESTMENT BUT A NECESSARY ONE!

Royalite rig "spuds in" a well

A "CHRISTMAS TREE" of pipes, gauges and valves—or a hobbing pump—bedecks the producing well.

SECONDARY RECOVERY. Sometimes gas or water injection is used to "float out" reserves of oil. Secondary recovery projects of this type now underway could increase Royalite's proven reserves of crude by 30 million barrels.

Fast deposits of oil—in sand

EXPLORATION TODAY is a fully-developed science, and Royalite men must evaluate rock samples, aerial photos, land surveys, and test cores—before deciding to drill.

THE HUNT IS ON! The bit reams down . . . down . . . perhaps 15,000 feet or more into the earth's crust. In the first quarter of 1961, Royalite drilled six—and got six!

A "CHRISTMAS TREE" of pipes, gauges and valves—or a hobbing pump—bedecks the producing well. Today Royalite holds interests in many major fields in Western Canada.

UNITIZATION. In 1960, under a unitization agreement, Royalite was elected to operate the central section of the Turner Valley field, consisting of 111 wells.

EVEN OIL SANDS! In partnership with others, Royalite is researching economical ways of processing and marketing oil from the famous Athabasca sand banks, in which the Company holds an interest.

WE'RE IN THE PIPELINE BUSINESS TOO!

Dropping a pipeline across the prairies
OVER 300 MILES of Royalite pipelines, connected to major trans-Canada lines, carry every year millions of barrels of Western oil and condensate to storage and distribution centres.

PROCESSING GAS AND OIL AT OUR OWN PLANTS AND REFINERIES IS A 24 HOUR A DAY JOB!

A Royalite refinery gleams in the sun
DAILY THROUGHPUT capacities of over 14,000 barrels can be achieved at Royalite's refineries in Kamloops and Saskatoon—supplying Western Canada with top-quality petroleum products.

Filled to the market!
OFF THEY GO! Fleets of trucks and tank cars, bearing the familiar orange-and-turquoise "R", speed refinery products to their markets.

Royalite's busy gas scrubbing plant
GAS FOR THE WEST! Royalite's own gas processing plant, where over 100,000,000 cu. ft. of wet gas can be processed daily, yields natural gas, propane, butane, natural gasolines and sulphur.

Mr. Charles Hay, President, Royalite Oil Company, Limited

THE SECRET OF SUCCESS? Quality-control. The good name Royalite products have is a lasting tribute to the skill of Royalite chemists and engineers.

MOVING STRONGLY into marketing in the fifties—Royalite built, bought or leased bulk plants and service stations from Manitoba to Vancouver Island. Today over 720 outlets carry the historic name Royalite.

CANADA'S FARM MARKET—right from the start—was given special attention by Royalite. In fact, the Royalite network of Farm Service Agents is one of the Company's proudest achievements.

Space Still Secret

EDMONTON—Famed physicist Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer says great scientific discoveries are not likely to come from short hops into the "suburbs of space" such as that taken by Major Yuri Gagarin. Dr. Oppenheimer, director of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, N.J., said Gagarin's flight was a great technical achievement and an adventure.

However, with space exploration in its present stage of development he looks for greater discoveries once man is able to place a telescope on an artificial satellite beyond the atmosphere where it can take an unhampered look into space.

Council Expected To Accept Award And Shorter Day

City council will get a chance to reconsider its rejection two weeks ago of a conciliation award for 138 civic inside workers, and is expected to accept it — reluctantly.

The award offered no new wage scale but would shorten the working day of the city hall staff by half an hour during the five summer months.

FORESTALL TREAT

If council accepts the award at its Thursday meeting it will forestall a threat by the inside workers' association to claim for overtime if the staff is forced to work until 5 p.m. each day after May 1.

The overtime claim would cost the city as much as $220 a day.

ALDERMEN HOPE

Several aldermen have softened towards the award since it was handed down by a conciliation officer last month.

Factors in the belief that council will finally accept it are the overtime threat and the fact that the conciliation procedure which produced it has been endorsed by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson.

SINGLE OFFICER

Council rejected the usually binding award on the grounds that it came from a single conciliation officer and not, as required by the city's contract with inside workers, by a full board.

In a letter to go before council Thursday the labor minister states, "I am fully satisfied that all requirements of the legislation have been fulfilled by members of my department; that the conciliation officer was conscientious in his endeavors and that he properly discharged his duties."

If council accepts the award city hall workers will go home each day at 4:30 p.m. during the summer. Their working day starts at 8:30 a.m.

13 Miles a Day

Walker Enters Quebec

Lone Jaycee birdwalker Elaine Tringham reached Riviere du Loup, Que., last night on his way from Halifax to Victoria.

Walking by himself since his companion Don Johnson dropped out with a leg injury, Tringham told Victoria Jaycee officials that he has averaged about 13 miles a day for the past eight days.

MOST DIFFICULT

In a long distance call, Tringham said the most difficult part of the cross-Canada hike is in being alone on the road.

"It's like being in solitary confinement but he has to keep walking," Griff Layne, chairman of the Victoria Jaycee committee organizing the walk, said.

FINDS IT HARD

Another difficulty is that Tringham doesn't speak French and finds it hard to make himself understood now that he is in Quebec.

He hopes to be in Montreal by April 30.

Polio Shots 'Piece of Cake'

Receiving a polio immunization shot is "a piece of cake" according to James Randall, one of 175 HMC Dockyard civilian employees visiting the one-day clinic yesterday. Any nervousness was dispelled by cheerful nurses, Mrs. Ruth McCubbin and

Lilla Wright. The series of three vaccine shots are also available each Wednesday afternoon at 1947 Cook, and at a special clinic this Wednesday from 1 to 6 p.m. (Colonist photo.)

Builder Reports:

Industrial Estate To Improve Area

The $10,000,000, 70-acre industrial estate planned for land south of the Trans-Canada Highway, between Admirals and Burnside Roads, will vastly improve an unattractive area.

This was claimed last night by R. G. Bentall, vice-president of Dominion Construction Co. Ltd. of Vancouver, the company which wants to build the estate.

OPPOSITION

Strong opposition has come from two Saanich councillors — Leslie Passmore and Gregory Cook — and residents of Sedger Street, which overlooks the area are circulating petitions objecting to the plan.

"The estate will be much more attractive to look at than it is at present with the outdoor theatre with the big screen (Tilikum) and rough bush," Mr. Bentall said.

"We feel that what we propose, with buildings set back from the boundaries, the type of buildings we plan and the landscaping will be very attractive."

NO SMOKE

"Offices, warehouses and distribution centres would be housed in the estate. There would be no industrial smoke stacks or smelters," he added.

"This could be a big asset for Saanich. It would have a total benefit of about $10,000,000, meaning the municipality would benefit substantially in taxes and the estate would require very little back in the way of municipal services," he said.

Presentation Of Drums June 15

Provincial government and intermunicipal representatives will take part in a ceremony at Beacon Hill Park June 15 at which a new set of drums will be presented to the Royal Canadian Navy.

The drums have been bought by the provincial government and the four Greater Victoria municipalities on a 50-50 basis.

Purpose behind the gift is to bring the armed services and the civilian population closer together in a bond of good fellowship, according to officials.

"We want to make the servicemen very much a part of our way of life—not just another tax expenditure," said a spokesman.

The drums were promised when the RCN celebrated its 50th anniversary last year. The ceremony will take place June 15 at 7:30 p.m.

City Pianist Wins Class On Mainland

LESLIE PASSMORE ... no telling

Backers Starting Campaign

Saanich school board last night set May 6 as voting day for the $675,000 building bylaw in School District 63.

Polls will be open from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m. in the school board office on Third Street, Sidney, and in all district schools except Mt. Newton High School and Royal Oak Elementary School.

CANVASSER MOON

S. P. Oakes, chairman of the Schools for Saanich campaign committee, said his group is ready to launch a house-to-house canvass of 4,500 homes in the district to rally support for the bylaw.

A mass rally of canvassers will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday in Mt. Newton High School to kick off the drive starting Thursday, he said.

THREE DEFEATS

In its campaign to ensure the success of the bylaw, following three consecutive defeats of similar bylaws within the space of little more than a year, the campaign committee has approached local councils and organizations seeking endorsement of the building program.

Saanich council, which had received a request for permission to advertise without cost to the municipality that it was in favor of the bylaw, last night decided to stay neutral.

RURAL PORTION

Only the rural portion of the municipality lies within School District 63, which takes in the northern portion of the Saanich Peninsula. Reeve George Chatterton raised the issue of council support during informal discussions at the council meeting.

Coun. Leslie Passmore said: "I am in favor of saying we would like to see everyone get out and vote, but I don't live in this area (District 63) and I don't feel I should tell anyone how to vote."

MATTER DROPPED

His comment was echoed by several other councillors and the matter was dropped.

Schools for Saanich campaign committee was formed to support the bylaw for construction of urgently needed new classrooms after the situation had been aggravated by defeat of the three earlier bylaws.

TO OFFICERS

Each canvasser will carry fact sheets and copies of the proposed bylaw in order to give answers to questions raised by ratepayers. Questions that cannot be answered on the spot will be referred to officers and the required information will be quickly obtained.

Most of the house calls will be made in the evenings, a campaign committee spokesman said.

Campaign chairman Oakes said more than 100 canvassers have already been enrolled. Anyone who wishes to assist in this task should turn out for the Wednesday night meeting in Mount Newton High School.

Indians Plan Big Regatta For May 7

Saanich Indian recreation commission will stage a regatta with a full program of war canoe races and novelty events May 7 on the Brentwood Bay Indian reservation.

Festivities will be officially opened by Education Minister Leslie Peterson at 1:30 p.m. All proceeds will go towards providing sports facilities for Indian youth in the area.

MORE THAN 2,000

Last year, officials said, the event drew more than 2,000 spectators, and this year it is expected to increase attendance.

Highlight of the afternoon's water sports will be a rare demonstration, in slow motion, of "switching" when all 11 paddlers in a war canoe in unison change their paddle blades from one side of the craft to the other.

FIRST TIME

Chief Don Williams of the Cole Bay Indian band said it was the first time such an exhibition would be held in B.C. waters. It will be done close inshore so that spectators can get a good view during the parade of war canoes, he said.

Mr. Williams is president of the Saanich Indian Recreation Commission. A 25-cent charge will be made for admission and there is ample parking space and clean gravel beach at the site of the water sports.

TWO-MAN TEAMS

Outstanding novelty event of the afternoon will be a "hurdles" event in which two-man teams in a dugout canoe will race over a course with half-submerged log obstacles.

Guests of honor will be greeted with ceremonial Indian dances. A salmon bake and clam chowder will be put on for the occasion by members

Trial Mall To Imperil Real One?

Creation of a block-long experimental pedestrian mall on Broad Street later this summer could jeopardize Victoria's chances of getting the real thing, City Engineer James Garnett warned yesterday.

"There is a real danger that the public will look at a mall on this scale and say 'well this is a mall so what?'" said Mr. Garnett.

$5,000 TO $10,000

He was referring to a $5,000 to $10,000 experimental mall which a group of property owners have asked for on Broad Street between Fort and Broughton.

Plans for the project will be complete in a few days, the engineer said, and will be presented to public works committee.

He said that if the city adopts the plan he hopes the public will fully understand that it is experimental and that severe limitations are inherent in the temporary nature and size of the project.

ENTIRE LENGTH

Earlier he told the public works committee that Broad Street along its entire length from Broughton to Cormorant would make an excellent permanent mall at a future date.

Such a project could revitalize the street commercially and is a logical move in downtown planning, he said.

Refugee Aid Meeting Set

The Adoption Committee for Aid to Displaced Persons in Europe will meet at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the Douglas Building Cafeteria.

Father W. S. Lacko, who spent three years in a refugee camp, will be guest speaker. The public is invited.

Matches Out, Lighters Fine! Are You Out of Your Mind?

Peter Bruton's Capital Notebook

THE INSIDE STORY:

Friend of ours recently spent some time in Crease Clinic and has some interesting insights on life over there.

The favorite saying among patients, it seems, is: "You must be out of your mind!"

Our friend also told us that as far as he could make out, all of the young people in Crease Clinic came from Vancouver Island... a statistic which, we fear, Vancouver boosters will make the most of.

Finally there is this nugget of incidental intelligence. Patients are forbidden to have matches.

If they want a cigarette they have to call a nurse who keeps a box of matches in her uniform pocket. She lights it and then puts the box back in her pocket.

One can understand the sound thinking behind this. But while patients are forbidden to have matches they're allowed to have cigarette lighters.

Who's crazy?

SOLID SUPPORTER: Tory officials out at Reeve George Chatterton's campaign headquarters still can't quite get over the visit they had from a resident of the riding.

He asked when the advance poll would be because he was going to Manitoba for a vacation with his wife.

It turned out he would miss the advance poll also. "Well, that doesn't matter," he told amazed officials. "My wife and I will fly back to vote for George."

HIGHWAY PATROL: While the RCMP are as busy as ever along the Island Highway trying to protect motorists from themselves the motorists are making increasing use of a gambit designed to protect each other from the RCMP.

This year, more than ever before, commuters along the route are using the rapidly flashing headlight gimmick to warn oncoming traffic that a police patrol or radar set-up lurks somewhere ahead.

FAINT-HEARTED: Photographer Ted Harris went out to get a picture of civilian employees at HMC Dockyard getting their Salk anti-polio vaccine shots.

When he arrived there was only one man left.

So, with nothing to do, they grabbed Ted and gave him a booster shot.

YE NOVEL APPROACH:

Real estate man Eric Charnan has apparently hit on a sure-fire success system when it comes to selling expensive houses.

In the last week or so he's sold two homes of a combined total of $63,000—after having 563 people go through the homes in day-long open houses.

Real estate men consider they have worked wonders if they can get 20 people to an open house.

The secret of Eric's success—the old England bit.

Saturday he had Agatha Christie in real life. Mona Rickaby—serving tea and crumpets to the throng.

They got through 18 dozen crumpets.

One prospective buyer who wanted to check with her sister before signing on the dotted line looked around and could not find her. She was eventually located in the kitchen. The rush was so great said residents can't even find parking spaces in front of their 'Families' Plaguing 'Servants'

Large number of pregnancies among the increasing percentage of married women in the B.C. civil service is causing "administrative problems," it was learned yesterday.

Departmental heads have been ordered to crack down on the granting of pregnancy leave and to "encourage" the employees to resign.

DIRECTIVE OUT

A directive to this effect has gone out from Dr. Hugh Morrison, chairman of the Civil Service Commission.

Present policy has been to allow leave of absence without pay in cases of pregnancy within the civil service.

"However it has been noted an increasing number of employees now are applying for pregnancy leave, resulting in increased administrative problems," the directive states. "It is considered the present policy should be modified."

In future, pregnancy leave will be a matter for departmental administration and decision and the following will be the guiding principles in that decision, he said.

• "Is the efficiency of the employee being fully maintained or has there been a decline in efficiency as the confinement period approaches?"

• "The employee should be encouraged to resign with the understanding she will be given priority for re-employment after the birth of the child."

• "Where in very exceptional cases it is considered in the interest of the (civil) service that leave of absence (without pay) be granted application should be made in the usual way to the civil service commission."

'Vague' Parking Plan Won't Stop Alderman

A Victoria alderman said yesterday that "vague" provincial plans for more off-street parking in the legislative area won't deter him from seeking further street parking restrictions in the area.

Ald. Michael Griffin said last week he will seek greater parking restrictions in the vicinity of the legislative buildings as a form of relief to residents of the area and as a means to encourage the province to provide ample parking for civil servants.

OWN HOMES

He accused the provincial government of procrastinating in development of more off-street parking in the area and employees who do park on said residents can't even find parking spaces in front of their own homes because of the number of civil servants' cars parked on adjacent streets.

Works Minister W. N. Chant replied at the weekend that civil servants have agreed to pay for off-street parking and that a fund will be set up with which to acquire additional off-street parking areas.

HITTING BACK

Hitting back at Ald. Griffin, he said that the only off-street parking provided at city hall is for aldermen.

Ald. Griffin replied yesterday that the city provides parking facilities for a "large percentage" of the city hall staff, in development of more off-street parking in the area and employees who do park on said residents can't even find parking spaces in front of their

Your Problems

By Ann Landers

Dear Ann Landers: When I was 19 I fell in love with a married man. We went together five years before his wife would give him a divorce.

We've been married 15 months and our baby is two months old. He is colicky and cries a lot. My husband says his other children never cried at night and he doesn't see why this one has to. He finds fault with my housekeeping and says he's not used to living in an untidy house. He knows when we were going together that I never cared for housework but he said THEN it didn't matter.

Yesterday he made a dirty crack about my having lost my figure and this really hurt. After all the baby is only two months old.

The worst part is that he talks in his sleep and calls me by his ex-wife's name and talks to his children. I am very unhappy and I'm afraid he is, too. What happened to the most exciting love affair in the whole world?—NAME LESS.

Dear Nameless: It was legal. You were a lovely, devoted but not substantial enough for the main course.

What you two thought was love was just a chemical reaction to the excitement of sneaking around.

The difficult business of building a life as man and wife is much more demanding than sipping wine and holding hands in a dimly-lit rendezvous. Marriage demands maturity. Running around demands only time and energy.

DO 'SLIMMING DIETS' AGE THE COMPLEXION?

Sometimes it happens! A low-fat diet, combined with a rushed modern life—outdoors in all weathers, indoors in overheated rooms—can lead to a condition of skin dryness. And from this may develop those worrying problems of harsh, flaky patches, little lines, crow's feet. What to do? Use rosd's DRY SKIN CREAM. This famous cream contains Allantoin—a substance that floats off lifeless surface skin cells, speeds deep penetration of Pond's moisturized lanolin. Dried-out, thirsty tissues in the skin's sub-surface are re-moistened, and almost overnight, your complexion takes on a softer, smoother, younger look. Use rosd's DRY SKIN CREAM regularly. Buy it in jar or tube, wherever cosmetics are sold. Adv.

There's none of that "dried straw" feeling you get after permanent... none of the stickiness of sprays and lacquers... none of that old country "fixed up" look as you get after wave sets. And, most important of all, your casual curls and waves still look as glamorous the eighth day as they do the first, yet the cost is so fantastically low it's amazing!

Alberni's Mayor Fights Aldermen Every Inch of Way

ALBERNI — Every inch of ground was contested last night as Mayor Mabel Anderson and her six aldermen fought their way through a 2½-hour-long meeting.

Two resolutions on the postal issue, returned by the mayor for reconsideration, were reaffirmed by council with the mayor giving her opinion that the council's only jurisdiction in the matter was to ask the postmaster-general to enlarge and renovate the present post office.

PLEBISCITE
She declared that mail delivery on which the council has proposed that the postmaster-general call for a plebiscite was not within the jurisdiction of the council.

She questioned how funds would be raised for the proposed plebiscite and suggested that it would be at variance with democratic principles for donations to be accepted for financing such a plebiscite.

OUT OF HANDS
Ald. Thomas Barnett pointed out that the matter would be out of the hands of the council if the postmaster-general adopted its recommendations.

Voting against the reaffirmation motion, Mayor Anderson directed city clerk James Sawyer to record her statement that she recommended that the matter of a plebiscite is ultra vires.

More than half-a-dozen times during the meeting the mayor's ruling was challenged when she did not put motions proposed by various aldermen. In each instance Ald. Russell Foxcroft was asked to act as chairman while the motion was voted upon.

Trouble started at the opening of the meeting when Mayor Anderson criticized a radio report that she had made a retraction in connection with the recent dispute as to her intentions in regard to calling a public enquiry.

She explained that she had not withdrawn or retracted anything.

Council adopted the minutes of last week's meeting over the mayor's objection that a statement she had read was not recorded.

At one time the mayor continued to read aloud from the accounts file while aldermen, appointing Ald. Foxcroft to the chair, went on with other business, ignoring her.

Voices rose as both Mayor Anderson and the aldermen tried to make themselves heard.

NAMES, AMOUNTS

The trouble arose over the mayor's insistence on a change in the method of presentation of accounts. She insisted on reading the names and the amounts on each account.

Ald. Charles Blair suggested that Mayor Anderson was being "ridiculous" in her stand, pointing out that the files are available for inspection by members of council and that the recommended procedure was being followed in passing vouchers by number.

Previously, the mayor had said that apparently aldermen did not want the public to know what was in the accounts.

Traditions Remembered

Traditions and history of the Old Country were main topics of discussion at a St. George's Day dinner held last night in the Old England Inn. Royal Society of St. George officers, from left, are president Frank P. Boucher, treasurer Mrs. A. E. G. Cornwall and secretary Mrs. L. Bertha Pearson. — (Colonist photo.)

Ex-Councillor Says Reeve Misled Voters

Reeve R. Gordon Lee of Central Saanich has been "misleading" the ratepayers about the municipality's $185,000 water bylaw, ex-councillor Ray Lamont charged last night.

The bylaw goes to a vote of the ratepayers, Saturday. "Reeve Lee has made it appear that this water plan will be entirely financed by the people who use the water," Mr. Lamont said.

"He does not know this and he has no means of making sure that the cost will be paid by the water users."

"The burden of paying for this system might well fall upon all the taxpayers, to be paid out of general revenue."

"The engineer who designed the system calculated that it would not be financially sound with less than 150 paid up customers. The council promised not to begin construction until that number had been signed up."

"The reeve, the engineer, and the chairman of the water committee all assured ratepayers at public meetings that the balancing tank and the distribution system would not be started until 150 prospective water users had signed up and paid deposits of $100 each. "On this understanding, the ratepayers passed the first $83,000 bylaw."

BROKE PROMISE

"However, the council broke its promise, and built the balancing tank when fewer than 80 people had been signed up."

"If the project goes ahead now, the chances are that there will not be sufficient income from the sale of water to pay off the debt charges."

"In this event—which is a strong possibility—the remainder of the bill will have to be paid out of general income."

"I believe the ratepayers should know these facts before they vote on the bylaw."

"I am in favor of water for the municipality, but let's have the balancing tank and the distribution system would not be started until 150 prospective

20 Daily Colonist, Victoria, Tuesday, April 23, 1961

Mr. Lamont said he would challenge Reeve Lee with these statements at a meeting on the water bylaw at 8 p.m. today in Women's Institute Hall, Brentwood.

Court Told Theft Admitted

VANCOUVER (CP) — An official of Gordon House Community Centre told a British Columbia "size court" jury Monday that his bookkeeper told him voluntarily she had "taken" $8,000 of the centre's funds and used the money to help her family.

E. J. Helm, executive director of Gordon House, was testifying at the trial of Audrey Hanson, 26, charged with theft of $8,432 from the centre between June, 1959, and January, 1961.

ONE WOMAN

Miss Hanson pleaded not guilty before Mr. Justice Harry Sullivan and a jury of one woman and 11 men. She is conducting her own case.

The woman was employed as secretary bookkeeper at the West End centre.

Helm told the court Miss Hanson came to his office on the day auditors were due to arrive and told him she had taken money from the organization.

HOW MUCH
"I asked how much she had taken, and she said about $8,000. It was quite a shock." He said the executive bookkeeper had told him she wanted the money to pay personal bills and assist her family.

Nova Scotia Area War Nerve Centre

HALIFAX (CP) — The newspaper says, that the site is in the Debert Great village area of Colchester county near Truro, in central Nova Scotia. There had been "considerable" development work in that area, the dispatch says, "which the government has been reluctant to discuss."

Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced last week that tenders were to be called for sites in British Columbia, Alberta, Ontario and Quebec. Plans for other provinces were to be announced later.

175 Stations All Ready For Anglers

When The Daily Colonist King Fisherman contest—1961 edition—opens Saturday fishermen will have a choice of 175 weigh-in stations at which to enter their catches.

Teams of Colonist representatives now are touring Vancouver Island, from Port McNeill in the north, Tofino at the west, and Sooke in the south, briefing fishing resort owners and weighmasters about this year's contest, which will see the biggest array of prizes yet offered in the seven years of King Fisherman contests.

TROPHIES, CRESTS

Every fisherman who fishes in Vancouver Island or Gulf Islands waters will be able to get in on the King Fisherman fun. There will be handsome trophies and King Fisherman Prince crests for everyone who catches big fish, whether or not they are subscribers to the Colonist.

But it pays to subscribe to the Colonist because only subscribers may qualify for the big merchandise prizes which will include an all-expenses-paid trip for two to Mexico via Canadian Pacific Airlines; a weekend wilderness camping fishing trip for two, via Vancouver Island Helicopters; a Crusader aluminum cartop boat, inflatable two-man rubber boat from Jeune Bros., tent from Jeune Bros., expensive camera from Colwood Pharmacy, Youngstown food waste disposer from W. R. Menzies, a $100 Imperial Esso prize, outboard motor from Eaton's, charter fishing trips, lures, rods, reels and scores of other hidden-weight and fishing prizes.

EVERY FISH

It will pay to weigh in every fish caught—trout and bass one pound and over and salmon five pounds and over—because each month there will be an array of hidden-weight prizes, with every fish caught between April 29 and Oct. 15 eligible for the major hidden-weight prizes.

Last year's Mexico trip winner Doug Dye won the major prize with a five-pound spring salmon, although he weighed in other fish weighing more than 30 pounds during the year.

Some 110 Prince crests will be awarded each month for heaviest fish in all six categories—lake trout, river trout, small-mouthed bass, coho, spring and tyee salmon.

No Shelters for Douglas If Canada Atom-Attacked

CRAIK, Sask. (CP)—Premier T. C. Douglas of Saskatchewan says he has "no intention" of taking refuge in a bomb shelter if Canada is attacked with nuclear weapons.

Premier Douglas also said in a telegram to Rev. C. R. Cholerton of Craik that the provincial government has no plans for building a bomb shelter.

The premier was replying to a telegram sent by a community meeting in Craik, where the subject of nuclear warfare was discussed.

The meeting asked the premier if accommodation would be provided in the bomb shelter for Liberal leader Ross Thatcher of Saskatchewan and other members of the opposition.

Premier Douglas replied: "I believe the federal government intends to build a citadel in each province to house the military and civil defence organizations."

"This space should be reserved for those persons who are in charge of directing the necessary services to provide care for the injured and accommodation for evacuees from other areas."

Burglar Bites Hand Which May Feed Him

Case of burglar biting the hand that feeds him was one of four break-ins and thefts reported to city police during the weekend.

The John Howard Society is an organization of volunteers devoted to rehabilitation of criminals, with offices in Victoria at 1951 Cook.

Yesterday morning city police were advised the office had been broken into. Police found entry had been gained by forcing a door to the office, then forcing open a filing cabinet.

Stolen was a metal cash box containing $30.

Loot in other weekend raids totalled another $1,641.

Thieves made off with two outboard motors, valued at $500.75 and $1,025.25 from a Mc & Mc warehouse at 2025 Government Sunday evening.

Police found the raiders had climbed a fence behind the warehouse, and pried open the big rear doors. A freight dolly had been used to haul the motors to the fence.

Drastic Curb Asked In Jury Exemptions

VERNON (CP)—A plea for the drastic curbing of jury duty exemptions was made at the opening of spring Assize Court here Monday by Mr. Justice J. G. Rutan.

In a 10-minute address to the jury panel before start of the first case, the judge called for the inclusion of more female jurors, the granting of less exemptions to business and administrative leaders, and an increase in compensation to jury members.

"If we are to make this jury system work, we must extend it to many more people in the community," he said.

Earlier he had been told of a long list of people who had sought exemption from duty.

New Talks May Avert Rail Strike

OTTAWA (CP)—Full-scale negotiations aimed at averting the May 16 railway strike threat will be launched later this week, reliable informants said Monday.

The new talks—in which the full railway and union negotiating teams will participate—are expected to start in Montreal Wednesday.

Informants indicate the government has provided a basis on which meaningful negotiations can be launched. But the nature of the government intervention is not known.

All parties connected with the dispute have been cautioned to proceed quietly and with a minimum of publicity.

and Montreal, capped a day of parades and meetings with government officials with a rally at the Coliseum.

Their leaders said "we will return three or four times as strong in three or six months" if jobs aren't made available for Canada's more than 700,000 unemployed.

The placard-waving group arrived in Ottawa at 6 a.m. EST and marched the two miles to the Coliseum where they awaited reports from their representatives who presented a brief to the government. Later they marched in front of the Parliament buildings.

FIVE MINISTERS

After a 3½-hour morning meeting with five cabinet ministers by a delegation of 30 of the jobless, the entire group proceeded to the main Commons entrance for an orderly demonstration.

They later jammed the Commons railway committee room, where their brief was read again, once to representatives of the CCF-New Party group—and again to the Liberals.

FOR GOVERNMENT

Speaking for the government, Labor Minister Starr said:

"As a government we don't want this problem. We would certainly be foolish if we obscured our vision and did nothing about it. In time we have to go back to the voters who elected us."

ACTION NOW

Stanley Thornley of Toronto, leader of the group which calls itself the National Unemployment Lobby Committee, said immediate action must be taken.

"The unemployed are only starting their campaign," he said. "If the government does not act, they will stand exposed before the whole country."

Strikebound Royal York Not Closing

TORONTO (CP)—Angus MacKinnon, general manager of the Royal York Hotel, said Monday night the hotel will be able to operate "a long, long time" despite strike action by a union representing some 1,200 of its 1,350 full-time employees.

Mr. MacKinnon told a press conference the hotel, largest in the Commonwealth, will stay open by hiring non-union help from the ranks of Toronto's unemployed and flying in some 50 or 60 employees of other hotels owned by the Canadian Pacific Railway.

The strike began after collapse of negotiations with the 1,188-member Local 299 of the Hotel and Club Employees' Union (CLC).

Jittery France Awaits Invasion

Paris
Main
Target

PARIS (Reuters) — An Interior ministry official declared early today that "all is quiet and we now do not expect anything to happen this night."

There was no sign of an invasion of metropolitan France by Algeria-based rebel paratroopers when the official made the announcement.

Government sources had said earlier:

NOON OR LOST

The danger of an attack against the central power is greater than it was last night. The rebels know they must capture Paris soon or they are lost.

An alert for an invasion by paratroopers under Algeria's rebel French generals went on after France clamped an economic blockade on the North African territory Monday night.

Other Stories,
See Page 7.

Information Minister Louis Terrenoire said all movements of funds, all bank operations and all maritime traffic was being suspended between metropolitan France and Algeria.

With 3,000 to 4,000 volunteers enrolled in a specially constituted army unit and other safeguards in force, government security measures were rated stronger than 24 hours ago.

PROTESTS CITED

There were reports by loyalist airmen flying in from Algeria that some airmen and sailors there had protested the rebellion.

However, the French news agency said the French Foreign Legion headquarters town of Sidi Bel Abbes had gone over to the rebel generals, who also are said to control Oran and Constantine as well as Algeria.

ARMY HELD

Premier Debre Monday night issued a new warning of a possible invasion by the Algerians following its failure to execute an expected paratrooper assault Sunday night.

He emphasized the government would not hesitate to use civilian organizations as demanded by the Communists. Terrenoire announced formation of a special 10,000-man force of riot police, police and republican guards for the defence of Paris.

TO THEIR KNEES

"All means will be employed to block the way to these men, until we can bring them to their knees."

Experts calculated that Algeria could not hold out in the face of a blockade for more than two weeks. The rebel generals in Algeria must seize Paris within a week or meet total failure, they said.

DOWN TOOLS

Meanwhile, 10,000,000 French workers downed tools for an hour Monday in a gesture of support for de Gaulle—the biggest general strike ever known in the country. Gen. Maurice Challe, one of the rebel junta, said the coup was aimed at saving Algeria "from the claws of rebellion and to give back France a peaceful Algeria."

He added: "In this matter I shall go on to the very end."

U.S. 'Angry Man'
Hits Education

VANCOUVER (CP) — Lack of individual attention, too much wasted time and diversions that don't belong in the classroom make much of North America's teaching ineffective, says Dr. Mortimer Adler.

Dr. Adler, head of the Institute of Philosophical Research in San Francisco, and once called the "Angry Man" of U.S. education, made the comments in an interview here.

An average student, able to make passing grades in a four-year course, could do it in two with a tutor, said Dr. Adler. Effective teaching, he added, requires small classes, not more than 10 to 15. In a class of 30, each student seldom can be "called to bat" and his attention can wander the remainder of the time.

"Teachers are not given enough general education. The thing they can not do is pass on the torch of learning unless they are on fire themselves."

DONALD FLEMING

Tax Relief Seen
Only for Industry

OTTAWA (Special) — Canadian taxpayers are expected to get little relief from the present heavy burden of taxes in the federal budget due in the Commons next month.

Finance Minister Fleming is determined to curb the size of his 1961-62 budget deficit and at the same time provide momentum to the pace of economic expansion.

Obviously go to business and industry to encourage economic growth, rather than to the average taxpayer.

Exact date of the budget, probably May 11 or 18, may be announced in the Commons this week. It was just last week the Commons approved the "class or kind" tariff resolution based on the baby budget's provisions.

Delay in approving the baby budget has held back the 1961-62 budget. So has the railway strike set for May 16.

The federal government may decide to provide subsidies to the railways to help them pay the additional $45,000,000 needed to meet wage demands. Mr. Fleming has to find this money.

Already several members of the cabinet have dropped hints that little or no tax cuts can be expected.

Recently Mr. Fleming himself hinted that if there was going to be any tax easement it might be in the field of corporation taxes.

There seems little chance for income tax concessions for the man in the street, despite representations from several quarters for a "tax holiday" to place more spending money in the hands of the average Canadian.

Government thinking appears to be more along the line that to have any real effect personal income tax concessions would have to be of the massive order of $500,000,000 or more. This would work out to about $100 for each of the 5,000,000 taxpayers.

There is a very real question as to actually how much of this $100 saving would get into circulation. The weight of the arguments at present are against such a massive income tax cut.

There is a very real question as to actually how much of this $100 saving would get into circulation. The weight of the arguments at present are against such a massive income tax cut.

Fleming therefore is expected to concentrate in the area of business investment and expansion. To encourage business expansion there may be a cut in corporation taxes or a depreciation concession to encourage installation of new machinery or plants.

Torrent of Invective
Rubs In U.S. Defeat

(From AP—Reuters)

MIAMI—Cuba's radio stations continued to pour a stream of invective towards the United States Monday, rubbing in the defeat of a U.S.-approved invasion that was squelched by the forces of Premier Castro.

There was still no comment from President Kennedy or other Washington spokesmen on the charges made by Castro in a marathon television address Sunday night. In it he said "the threat of Kennedy is much like the threat of Hitler."

In his television speech, Castro was quoted by The Associated Press as saying "counter-revolutionaries must be shot" and "don't let the terrorists entertain dreams that they can act with impunity while they persist in these plans."

However, Castro implied that clemency for the captured invaders would depend on a U.S. pledge not to attempt to oust Communism from Cuba, the AP said.

There was no report of any executions Monday.

One broadcast said the total number of prisoners taken since the abortive coup began a week ago was 743.

NEW TARGET

A new target for vituperation was New York's Cardinal Spellman, described as "the Cardinal of the Pentagon, the Central Intelligence Agency and the North American monopolists."

A "pastoral letter of sorrow," written by the Roman Catholic prelate and read from the pulpit of New York City's St. Patrick's Cathedral, touched off the blast. It said the Castro government betrayed the revolution that put it in power.

There also were unconfirmed reports that an army uprising was under way in the provinces.

The White House issued a statement which said: "President Kennedy has stated from the beginning that anti-Castro landings may be

Kennedy Names
Brother to Probe

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Kennedy yesterday named his brother, Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, to help make a sweeping investigation of why U.S. intelligence experts underestimated Cuba's power to crush the anti-Castro invasion.

Kennedy also assigned central intelligence director Allen W. Dulles and Admiral Arleigh Burke, chief of naval operations, to work on the inquiry. The President Saturday named retired General Maxwell D. Taylor to head the study.

Generally, the investigation will look into this country's intelligence activities and methods to combat Communist subversion and guerrilla tactics around the world.

The inquiry will concentrate on a reappraisal of the military tactics, intelligence operations, decision-making and diplomatic machinery involved in the ill-fated Cuban invasion.

Clusters Must Go, Ottawans Cry

By TOM GREEN
Colonist Ottawa
Correspondent

OTTAWA — There is an outcry in Ottawa in connection with the elimination of the five globe cluster lights on the main thoroughfares of the capital, first installed by the city back in 1910.

But the outcry is not against their removal and their replacement by modern lighting standards. It is a demand—virtually unanimous among the citizenry—for more speed in getting rid of the old "clusters" as antiquated and giving insufficient light in contrast with the new modern standards.

Decision to start with removal of cluster lights on two of the seven main thoroughfares in the city where they have been erected over the years has now been taken by Ottawa's board of control. Elimination of the "clusters" on all main thoroughfares and their replacement by modern lighting standards is to be completed here within the next four or five years.

Paul Tardiff, Liberal MP for the adjacent riding of Russell and a city controller for many years, says the people of Ottawa are anxious to have their main thoroughfares lit with modern lighting. He was last in Victoria three years ago.

"Victoria," Mr. Tardiff said Monday, "is deserving of modern lighting. That would not prevent the hanging of their beautiful flower baskets on the new standards and continue the charm these decorations bring to Victoria."

EDMONTON—Famed physicist Dr. J. Robert Oppenheimer says great scientific discoveries are "not likely to come from short hops into the 'sub-urbs of space' such as that taken by Major Yuri Gagarin."

Dr. Oppenheimer, director of the Institute for Advanced Study at Princeton, N.J., said Gagarin's flight was a great technical achievement and an adventure.

However, with space exploration in its present stage of development he looks for greater discoveries once man is able to place a telescope on an artificial satellite beyond the atmosphere where it can take an unhindered look into space.

Council Expected To Accept Award And Shorter Day

City council will get a chance to reconsider its rejection two weeks ago of a conciliation award for 158 civic inside workers, and is expected to accept it—reluctantly.

The award offered no new wage scale but would shorten the working day of the city hall staff by half an hour during the five summer months.

FORESTALL THREAT

If council accepts the award at its Thursday meeting it will forestall a threat by the inside workers' association to claim for overtime if the staff is forced to work until 5 p.m. each day after May 1.

The overtime claim would cost the city as much as $220 a day.

ALDERMEN SORTED

Several aldermen have not yet decided on the award since it was handed down by a conciliation officer last month.

Factors in the belief that council will finally accept it are the overtime threat and the fact that the conciliation procedure which produced it has been endorsed by Labor Minister Leslie Peterson.

SINGLE OFFICER

Council rejected the usual binding award on the grounds that it came from a single conciliation officer and not, as required by the city's contract with inside workers, by a full board.

In a letter to go before council Thursday the labor minister states, "I am fully satisfied that all requirements of the legislation have been fulfilled by members of my department; that the conciliation officer was conscientious in his endeavors and that he properly discharged his duties."

If council accepts the award city hall workers will go home each day at 4:30 p.m. during the summer. Their working day starts at 8:30 a.m.

13 Miles a Day

Walker Enters Quebec

Lone Jaycee birdwalker Blaine Tringham reached Rivière du Loup, Que., last night on his way from Halifax to Victoria.

Walking by himself since his companion Don Johnson dropped out with a leg injury, Tringham told Victoria Jaycee officials that he has averaged about 13 miles a day for the past eight days.

MOST DIFFICULT

In a long distance call, Tringham said the most difficult part of the cross-Canada hike is in being alone on the road.

"It's like being in solitary confinement but he has to keep walking," Griff Layne, chairman of the Victoria Jaycee committee organizing the walk, said.

FINDS IT HARD

Another difficulty is that Tringham doesn't speak French and finds it hard to make himself understood now that he is in Quebec.

He hopes to be in Montreal by April 30.

Indians Plan Big Regatta For May 7

Saanich Indian recreation commission will stage a regatta with a full program of war canoe races and novelty events May 7 on the Brentwood Bay Indian reservation.

Festivities will be officially opened by Education Minister Leslie Peterson at 1:30 p.m. All proceeds will go towards providing sports facilities for Indian youth in the area.

MORE THAN 2,000

Last year, officials said, the event drew more than 2,000 spectators, and this year it is expected to increase attendance.

Highlight of the afternoon's water sports will be a rare demonstration, in slow motion, of "switching" when all 11 paddlers in a war canoe in unison change their paddle blades from one side of the craft to the other.

FIRST TIME

Chief Don Williams of the Cole Bay Indian band said it was the first time such an exhibition would be held in B.C. waters. It will be done "close inshore so that operators can get a good view during the parade of war canoes," he said.

Mr. Williams is president of the Saanich Indian Recreation Commission. A 25-cent charge will be made for admission and there is ample parking space and clean gravel beach at the site of the water sports.

TWO-MAN TEAMS

Outstanding novelty event of the afternoon will be a "hurdles" event in which two-man teams in a dugout canoe will race over a course with half-submerged log obstacles.

Guests of honor will be greeted with ceremonial Indian dances. A salmon bake and clam chowder will be put on for the occasion by members of the committee.

Trial Mall To Imperil Real One?

Creation of a block-long experimental pedestrian mall on Broad Street later this summer could jeopardize Victoria's chances of getting the real thing, City Engineer James Garnett warned yesterday.

"There is a real danger that the public will look at a mall on this scale and say 'well so this is a mall—so what?'" said Mr. Garnett.

$5,000 TO $10,000

He was referring to a $5,000 to $10,000 experimental mall which a group of property owners have asked for on Broad Street between Fort and Broughton.

Plans for the project will be complete in a few days, the engineer said, and will be presented to public works committee.

He said that if the city adopts the plan he hopes the public will fully understand that it is experimental and that severe limitations are inherent in the temporary nature and size of the project.

ENTIRE LENGTH

Earlier he told the public works committee that Broad Street along its entire length from Broughton to Carleton Place would make an excellent permanent mall at a future date.

Such a project could revitalize the street commercially and is a logical move in downtown planning, he said.

Polio Shots 'Piece of Cake'

Receiving a polio immunization shot is "a piece of cake" according to James Randall, one of 175 HMC Dockyard civilian employees visiting the one-day clinic yesterday. Any nervousness was dispelled by cheerful nurses, Mrs. Ruth McCubbin and

Lilla Wright. The series of three vaccine shots are also available each Wednesday afternoon at 1947 Cook, and at a special clinic this Wednesday from 1 to 6 p.m.—(Colonist photo.)

Builder Reports:

Industrial Estate To Improve Area

The $10,000,000, 70-acre industrial estate planned for land south of the Trans-Canada Highway, between Admirals and Burnside Roads, will vastly improve an unattractive area.

This was claimed last night by R. G. Bentall, vice-president of Dominion Construction Co. Ltd. of Vancouver, the company which wants to build the estate.

OPPOSITION

Strong opposition has come from two Saanich councillors—Leslie Passmore and Gregory Cook—and residents of Sedge Street, which overlooks the area are circulating petitions objecting to the plan.

"The estate will be much more attractive to look at than it is at present with the outdoor theatre with the big screen (Tillicum) and rough bush," Mr. Bentall said.

"We feel that what we propose, with buildings set back from the boundaries, the type of buildings we plan and the landscaping will be very attractive."

NO SMOKE

"Offices, warehouses and distribution centres would be housed in the estate. There would be no industrial smoke stacks or smells," he added.

"This could be a big asset for Saanich. It would have a total benefit of about $10,000,000, meaning the municipality would benefit substantially in taxes and the estate would require very little back in the way of municipal services," he said.

Presentation Of Drums June 15

Provincial government and intermunicipal representatives will take part in a ceremony at Beacon Hill Park June 15 at which a new set of drums will be presented to the Royal Canadian Navy.

The drums have been bought by the provincial government and the four Greater Victoria municipalities on a 50-50 basis.

Purpose behind the gift is to bring the armed services and the civilian population closer together in a bond of good fellowship, according to officials.

"We want to make the servicemen very much a part of our way of life—not just another tax expenditure," said a spokesman.

The drums were presented when the RCN celebrated its 50th anniversary last year. The ceremony will take place June 15 at 7:30 p.m.

Matches Out, Lighters Fine! Are You Out of Your Mind?

Peter Bruton's Capital Notebook

THE INSIDE STORY: Friend of ours recently spent some time in Crease Clinic and has some interesting sidelights on life over there.

The favorite saying among patients, it seems, is: "You must be out of your mind!"

Our friend also told us that as far as he could make out all of the young people in Crease Clinic came from Vancouver Island—a statistic which, we fear, Vancouver boosters will make the most of.

Finally there is this nugget of incidental intelligence. Patients are forbidden to have matches.

If they want a cigaret they have to call a nurse who keeps a box of matches in her uniform pocket. She lights it and then puts the box back in her pocket.

One can understand the sound thinking behind this. But while patients are forbidden to have matches they're allowed to have cigaret lighters.

Who's crazy?

SOLID SUPPORTER: Tory officials out at Reeve George Chatterman's campaign headquarters still can't quite get over the visit they had from a resident of the riding.

He asked when the advance poll would be because he was going to Manitoba for a vacation with his wife.

It turned out he would miss the advance poll also.

"Well, that doesn't matter," he told amazed officials. "My wife and I will fly back to vote for George."

HIGHWAY PATROL: While the RCMP are as busy as ever along the Island Highway trying to protect motorists from themselves the motorists are making increasing use of a gambit designed to protect them from the RCMP.

This year, more than ever before, commuters along the route are using the rapidly flashing headlight gimmick to warn oncoming traffic that a police patrol or radar set-up lurks somewhere ahead.

FAINTHEARTED: Photographer Ted Harris went out to get a picture of civilian employees at HMC Dockyard getting their "Salik" anti-polio vaccine shots.

When he arrived there was only one man left.

So, with nothing to do, they grabbed Ted and gave him a booster shot.

Duncan Tax Rate Reset at 42 Mills

DUNCAN—A slight upward revision in school costs at the last minute has ruled out a reduction in the city of Duncan's total tax rate for 1961.

City council last night set the rate at a total of 42 mills, the same as last year, and approved a budget calling for an over-all expenditure of $420,443.

General rate was set at 18.38 mills, the debt rate at 4.81 mills and school tax at 18.61 mills.

Using preliminary school cost estimates as a guide, council had expected to reduce the total tax rate this year by one mill over last year. But, Ald. R. K. Cairns, who introduced the 1961 budget said that the final figure of the city's share of costs in Cowichan school district jumped $5,193 to $106,780 from $101,587. "This," he said, "represents one mill in taxation."

Mayor Jack Dobson said he was a "little disappointed" that there was to be no reduction in the total tax rate this year. "Noting there were 21 Grade 12 students from Cowichan High School present at the meeting he told them: "It costs more to educate you young people than it does to run the city of Duncan. But, as I look around these keen, intelligent faces, I think it is worth it."

NANAIMO—A $150 fine was handed down yesterday by Magistrate Lionel Bevan for a new district hospital for Duncan appear to be close to the money bylaw stage.

First hint that the four districts involved in the project have finally agreed on a cost-sharing scheme came at the city council meeting here last night.

Ald. Steve Saunders announced that the city of Duncan's share of the cost of building the new hospital would be $186,334. This would be repayable over 20 years at $16,245 a year.

Council unanimously passed a resolution supporting the cost-sharing formula for the city.

Costs to be borne by the other districts involved—municipality of North Cowichan, unorganized area and Lake Cowichan—have yet to be announced.

Ald. Saunders said he expected the four districts would vote on a money bylaw, to finance construction of the hospital, early in June.

DUNCAN—Hearney Transport Co., Duncan, was fined a total of $150 in police court yesterday for allowing its vehicles to drive on the highway with overweight loads.

One of the trucks was checked on Lake Cowichan Road April 3 and was 8,520 pounds overweight. As they had been served with notice of a previous conviction, fine was $100.

Another vehicle was checked on April 7 and also found to be overweight. As the company in this case had not been notified of previous conviction, Magistrate Sutton set the fine at $50.

NANAIMO—Model railroad enthusiasts from Canada and the United States met here Sunday for the spring meeting of the seventh division of the Pacific Northwest region of the National Model Railroad Association.

Highlights for the 100 delegates was a visit to Elmer Blackstaff's five acres of property just outside Nanaimo. Delegates watched with envy as Mr. Blackstaff rode his 38-inch-long live steam locomotive around 2,000 feet of 7½-inch gauge track.

'Vague' Parking Plan Won't Stop Alderman

A Victoria alderman said down homes because of the number of civil servants' cars parked on adjacent streets.

Works Minister W. N. Chant replied at the weekend that civil servants have agreed to pay for off-street parking and that a fund will be set up with which to acquire additional off-street parking areas.

HITTING BACK

Hitting back at Ald. Griffin, he said that the only off-street parking provided at city hall is for aldermen.

Ald. Griffin replied yesterday that the city provides parking facilities for a "large percentage" of the city hall staff, besides aldermen, and that city employees who do park on adjacent streets are not impeding access to private dwellings.

OWN HOMES

He accused the provincial government of procrastinating in development of more off-street parking in the area and said residents can't even find parking spaces in front of their

Impaired Driving

Freed on Bail For Appeal

DUNCAN—A Duncan man has been released on $300 bail pending an appeal against a conviction for impaired driving.

Albert D. Walker pleaded not guilty to the charge but was convicted by Magistrate A. C.

Sutton and sentenced to 30 days' imprisonment. His licence was also suspended for 60 days.

SERVED NOTICE—His lawyer, A. I. MacDonald, immediately served notice of appeal and Walker later was released on bail.

Charge was laid against Walker, a logging truck driver, after police said he was driving in an erratic manner on Trunk Road on the night of April 15.

Const. Dave Kilcup testified that he was driving the police car along Trunk Road when a panel truck driven by Walker swerved over the centre line.

TURN SOUTH—As he turned and followed the truck, it started to turn south at the highway light and then swerved back and continued ahead.

Const. Kilcup said when he checked Walker, the smell of liquor in the truck was heavy and his actions were "befuddled." Later Walker was unable to complete certain tests. He described the accused's condition as "stupid drunk."

Walker, convicted in Nanaimo on the same charge six months ago, said he only had two glasses of beer and three drinks of rye and water on the night in question.

OUT OF WHACK—He claimed the steering on his truck had been "knocked out of whack" when it was hit by a low-bed truck while parked in a logging camp parking lot. The truck, he said, swerved over the centre line of the road after a door flew open and he had to reach over to close it.

Magistrate Sutton said he was convinced the police had a case and found Walker guilty as charged.

North of Island Drama Festival Biggest Ever

COURTENAY—Largest drama festival ever held on North Vancouver Island will be opened here Wednesday by Ian Docherty, well-known Vancouver music and drama critic.

Eleven one-act plays from eight centres will compete for the right to represent the North-Island zone at the B.C. finals in May. Honor performances of the three best plays will be presented at the conclusion of the festival Saturday night.

Competing clubs will be welcomed by Mayor W. C. Moore and adjudicated by Mrs. Eleanor Hewitt of Victoria.

BEST ACTING—In addition to the awards on Saturday for the best acting, direction and production, prizes will be announced during the festival in a senior high school contest for posters depicting play themes.

Plays have been entered from Campbell River, Port Alberni, Errington, Goombs, RCAF at Comox, Courtenay and as far north as Beaver Cove and Alert Bay.

SKY CAR—A logging mechanic is in Comox Hospital with a severe leg injury after an accident yesterday in the woods operation of Comox Logging Company.

It is reported Warren Bannerman, 42, of Courtenay, may be flown to Vancouver tomorrow for emergency treatment if his condition permits.

Bannerman was dragged 10 feet while repairing the braking system of a sky car when his legs became entangled in the choker lines. He was attended at the scene by a doctor and later taken to hospital by Courtenay ambulance.

The sky car is a new development in the logging industry for bringing logs in from the bush for loading. It hangs from an overhead cable track and is radio controlled.

A spokesman for the logging company said the car motor was started in order to build up brake pressure and accidentally drew in the choker line.

NEW FERRY FARE TOPIC—Proposed fares for the new Comox Powell River ferry service will be discussed by the operators and Courtenay-Comox Chamber of Commerce here Thursday.

Ben Hughes, Chamber of Commerce secretary, said opinions had been expressed at a recent Powell River meeting that the rates for the service to be inaugurated May 3 were too high. Passengers will pay $3.50 return and cars $7 one way.

Arrangements for the inaugural run also will be discussed at the Thursday meeting, he said. About 75 community leaders and officials from Powell River already have been lined up for the ceremonies.

Jittery France Still Awaits Invasion

Paris
Main
Target

PARIS (Reuters) — An interior ministry official declared early today that "all is quiet and we now do not expect anything to happen this night."

There was no sign of an invasion of metropolitan France by Algeria-based rebel paratroopers when the official made the announcement.

Government sources had said earlier:

SOON OR LOST

"The danger of an attack against the central power is greater than it was last night. The rebels know they must capture Paris soon or they are lost."

An alert for an invasion by paratroopers under Algeria's rebel French generals went on after France clamped an economic blockade on the North African territory Monday night.

Other Stories,
See Page 7.

Information Minister Louis Terrenoire said all movements of funds, all bank operations and all maritime traffic was being suspended between metropolitan France and Algeria.

With 3,000 to 4,000 volunteers enrolled in a specially constituted army unit and other safeguards in force, government security measures were rated stronger than 24 hours ago.

PROTESTS CITED

There were reports by loyalist airmen flying in from Algeria that some airmen and sailors there had protested the rebellion.

However, the French news agency said the French Foreign Legion headquarters town of Sidi Bel Abbes had gone over to the rebel generals, who also are said to control Oran and Constantine as well as Algiers.

ARMY HELD

Premier Debre Monday night issued a new warning of a possible invasion by the Algerian junta following its failure to execute an expected paratroop assault Sunday night.

He emphasized the government would not issue arms to civilian organizations as demanded by the Communists.

Terrenoire announced formation of a special 10,000-man force of riot police, police and republican guards for the defence of Paris.

TO THEIR KNEES

"All means will be employed to block the way to these men, until we can bring them to their knees."

Experts calculated that Algeria could not hold out in the face of a blockade for more than two weeks. The rebel generals in Algiers must seize Paris within a week of meet total failure, they said.

DOWN TOOLS

Meanwhile, 10,000,000 French workers downed tools for an hour Monday in a gesture of support for de Gaulle—the biggest general strike ever known in the country.

Gen. Maurice Challe, one of the rebel junta, said the coup was aimed at saving Algeria "from the claws of rebellion and to give back France a pacified Algeria."

He added: "In this matter I shall go on to the very end."

Women, Foreigners Join 'Citizen Army'

PARIS (Reuters) — Fashionably dressed Parisian women and a number of foreigners were among 4,000 volunteers who enrolled here Monday night in a French "citizen's army."

Recruiting for this anti-paratroop corps was opened in the Grand Palais, a glass-roofed exhibition hall near the Champs Elysees. The signing up closed two hours later with hundreds of people still waiting to enroll.

Recruits were guided to huge piles of boots, camouflage jackets, drinking mugs, steel helmets, belts and other items of military equipment sitting in the Grand Palais.

Tommy guns, rifles and ammunition were stacked in another corner, but no arms were issued.

Thrilled
—A Bit

Thrill of sitting in driver's seat of city fire truck was tinged with sadness yesterday for three-year-old Richard Mason, 240 Government Street, when he took the wheel of a fire truck yesterday in attempt to cheer up boy who was heartbroken when thief stole his pedal-car fire engine Saturday. DONALD FLEMING

Only Relief For Industry

OTTAWA (Special) — Canadian taxpayers are expected to get little relief from the present heavy burden of taxes in the federal budget due in the Commons next month.

Finance Minister Fleming is determined to curb the size of his 1961-62 budget deficit and at the same time provide momentum to the pace of economic expansion.

Tax concessions, if any, will obviously go to business and industry to encourage economic growth, rather than to the average taxpayer.

Exact date of the budget, probably May 11 or 18, may be announced in the Commons this week. It was just last week the Commons approved the "class or kind" tariff resolution based on the baby budget's provisions.

STRIKE ISSUE

Delay in approving the baby budget has held back the 1961-62 budget. So has the railway strike set for May 16.

The federal government may decide to provide subsidies to the railways to help them pay the additional $45,000,000 needed to meet wage demands. Mr. Fleming has to find this money.

HINTS DROPPED

Already several members of the cabinet have dropped hints that little or no tax cuts can be expected.

Recently Mr. Fleming himself hinted that if there was going to be any tax easement it might be in the field of corporation taxes.

There seems little chance for income tax concessions for the man in the street, despite representations from several quarters for a "tax holiday" to place more spending money in the hands of the average Canadian.

MASSIVE ORDER

Government thinking appears to be more along the line that to have any real effect personal income tax concessions would have to be of the massive order of $500,000,000 or more. This would work out to about $100 for each of the 5,000,000 taxpayers.

There is a very real question as to actually how much of this $100 saving would get into circulation. The weight of the arguments at present are against such a massive income tax cut.

BOUNCING BACK

The Conservatives feel the economy will pick up a bit during the summer. However actual business and industrial growth is not expected to be sufficient to keep next winter's prospective unemployment from bouncing back up again to high totals.

Fleming therefore is expected to concentrate in the area of business investment and expansion. To encourage business expansion there may be a cut in corporation taxes or a depreciation concession to encourage installation of new machinery or plants.

Torrent of Invective Rubs In U.S. Defeat

(From AP, Reuters)

MIAMI — Cuba's radio stations continued to pour a stream of invective towards the United States Monday, rubbing in the defeat of a U.S.-approved invasion that was squelched by the forces of Premier Castro.

There was still no comment from President Kennedy or other Washington spokesmen on the charges made by Castro in a marathon television address Sunday night. In it he said "the threat of Kennedy Hitler" is much like the threat of Hitler.

MUST BE SHOT

In his television speech, Castro was quoted by The Associated Press as saying "counter-revolutionaries must be shot" and "don't let the terrorists entertain dreams that they can act with impunity while they persist in these plans."

However, Castro implied that clemency for the captured invaders would depend on a U.S. pledge not to attempt to oust Communism from Cuba, the AP said.

NO REPORT

There was no report of any executions Monday. One broadcast said the total number of prisoners taken since the abortive coup began a week ago was 763.

A new target for vituperation was New York's Francis Cardinal Spellman, described as "the Cardinal of the Pentagon, the Central Intelligence Agency and the North American monopolists."

TOUCHED OFF

A "pastoral letter of sorrow," written by the Roman Catholic prelate and read from the pulpit of New York City's St. Patrick's Cathedral, touched off the blast. It said the Castro government betrayed the revolution that put it in power.

The White House issued a statement which said: "President Kennedy has stated from the beginning that

Gagarin's 'Vostok' Used Three Times

MOSCOW (UPI) — Soviet scientists test-fired the spaceship Vostok into orbit around the earth twice before it carried Maj. Yuri Gagarin on his historic flight, the government newspaper Izvestia said yesterday.

The newspaper said the tests were conducted in March. The Vostok carried two dogs named Chernushka (Little Star) and Zverdochka (Blackie) and a dummy, Izvestia said. The spaceship returned to earth both times "intact."

In a scientific report on Gagarin's flight, Izvestia said the two test flights "confirmed the reliability of the design and all instrumentation of the spaceship."

LAND ANYWHERE

It said the Vostok is equipped with instruments which would enable its pilot to land anywhere he chooses without control from the ground. Izvestia said Gagarin's flight was fully automatic but he could "at his own discretion or upon command from the earth, assume control . . . determine its bearings and descend in a chosen area."

Izvestia said Gagarin could have landed safely without leaving the capsule or he could have been ejected in his catapult seat from the cabin at an altitude of 4.3 miles and "then descend with parachutes." It did not say which method was used.

THREE PORTHOLES

Izvestia said Vostok had three portholes and two quick opening manholes. Its food and water supply, regeneration chemicals and electrical generators were designed for a 10-day flight.

U.S. Probes Cuba Setback

WASHINGTON (UPI) —

President Kennedy yesterday named his brother, Attorney General Robert F. Kennedy, to help make a sweeping investigation of why U.S. intelligence experts underestimated Cuba's power to crush the anti-Castro invasion.

Clusters Must Go, Ottawans Cry

By TOM GREEN
Colonist Ottawa
Correspondent

OTTAWA — There is an outcry in Ottawa in connection with the elimination of the five-globe cluster lights on the main thoroughfares of the capital, first installed by the city back in 1910.

But the outcry is not against their removal and their replacement by modern lighting standards. It is a demand—virtually unanimous among the citizenry—for more speed in getting rid of the old "clusters" so antiquated and giving insufficient light in contrast with the new modern standards.

Decision to start with removal of cluster lights on two of the seven main thoroughfares in the city where they have been erected over the years has now been taken by Ottawa's board of control. Elimination of the "clusters" on all main thoroughfares and their replacement by modern lighting standards is to be completed here within the next four or five years.

Paul Tardiff, Liberal MP for the adjacent riding of Russell and a city councillor for many years, says the people of Ottawa are anxious to have their main thoroughfares lit with modern lighting. He was last in Victoria three years ago. "Victoria," Mr. Tardiff said Monday, "is deserving of modern lighting. That would not prevent the hanging of their beautiful flower baskets on the new standards and continue the charm these decorations bring to Victoria."

Paul Tardiff, Liberal MP for the adjacent riding of Russell and a city councillor for many
